Thruway Bridge Work Is Stopped

Shad Scouts Out? Looks That Way

The shad run in the Hudson river this week is acting like it is sending out scouts to observe conditions, reports from one source indicated today.

A few fishermen in the Kingston Point area have been catching one and two at a time during the past few days and Louis Turck, of North street said his top catch, to date, was four.

By next week, or at the most, the next two weeks, the shad should be running in sufficient numbers to make the hauls worthwhile, Turck said.

Doyle Claims State Inspector Reason for Walkout in Area

Iron workers employed on the New York State Thruway project between Kingston and Whiteport walked off their jobs at 10 a. m. today, because of what was described by their union leader, Samuel Doyle, as interference by a state inspector.

Welders working on the job are required to pass a state test before they are allowed to work, Doyle said. The same should be true, he felt, of those who inspect their work.

About 50 men are affected by the stoppage.

One of the inspectors interfered with a welder this morning Doyle said and an argument ensued. He contended that if inspectors have complaints about anyone on the job they are supposed to go to the foreman.

Will Stay Away

Doyle indicated that the men would remain off the job "until we get an inspector who we think is qualified."

The iron workers involved are employed by the American Bridge Co., and the L. J. McNeil Co., subcontractors who are building the bridges and handling other iron and steel work on the Route 28 traffic interchange and on other structures between there and Whiteport.

It was indicated that if the stoppage lasts for any length of time it could hold up some carpenter work as well as welding on the job, but one source felt the walkout was probably a "temporary situation."

Wait-See Attitude Prevails in Capital Over Oppenheimer

McCarthy Has Affidavits, He Says, Showing Scientist Had Red Ties

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Congressional groups took a wait-and-see attitude toward the government's suspension and investigation of pioneer atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer on security grounds.

Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), declining to elaborate, said he has affidavits purporting to show that Oppenheimer once was a member of the Communist party—an affiliation the scientist has categorically denied.

From two other persons familiar with the case came statements that the accusations against Oppenheimer had been reviewed and discounted years ago. In notifying him of his suspension, however, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) spoke of "additional investigation" last year.

'Blank Wall' Ordered

The AEC said in a formal statement yesterday that President Eisenhower had ordered "a blank wall" placed temporarily between Oppenheimer, one of the chief developers of the atomic bomb, and secret data to which he has had access for over 10 years.

Pending the report of an AEC investigating panel headed by former secretary of the army Gordon Gray, Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R.-N. Y.) and Sen. Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa) fixed a hands-off policy for the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

And McCarthy told newsmen at Phoenix, Ariz., that while Oppenheimer's suspension was "long overdue—it should have been taken years ago," he has no plans how to get into the case with the Senate Investigations Subcommittee he heads.

"I wouldn't want to interfere with anything that is being done," he said. "As long as the administration continues to act, there is no reason for us to move in."

Cites Affidavits

Discussing the Princeton, N. J., scientist's case with newsmen, McCarthy said "I have affidavits that show that he was a member of the Communist party" and that he had "hired and recruited individuals who were Communists or at least had been Communists to handle atomic work." The senator did not say who had made the affidavits.

Oppenheimer, 49, has freely acknowledged associating with some Communists and fellow travelers years ago, but said he thinks his experience makes him more fit to serve the government. He is contesting the charges and has asked for a hearing. Since June 1952 he has been an AEC consultant.

Cole and Hickenlooper said in a joint statement yesterday that when the "orderly review" of the case is completed by the AEC, the Senate-House committee "will be in a position to take whatever action, if any, may be appropriate in the public interest." Cole is chairman and Hickenlooper vice chairman of the group.

No Further Statement

The AEC said that "propriety requires that it make no further statement" pending a decision.

Planning Board Is Given Zoning Code

C of C Proposals Cite Obsolete Sections in Old Ordinance

The Kingston Planning Board, which has been studying zoning for several months, last night, received from the Chamber of Commerce a proposed zoning code.

It was noted that the city now operates under a zoning ordinance adopted during the administration of Mayor E. J. Dempsey in 1928, and is in need of revision because "many sections are now obsolete."

The code, forwarded by the Chamber of Commerce, was accompanied by a letter from Albert Kurdt, the chamber's executive secretary, to Lawrence J. MacAvery, planning board chairman.

The proposed code was compiled by the City Legislative Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which has been functioning under the chairmanship of Chester A. Baltz, Jr.

Projects Are Approved

Washington, April 14 (AP)—The House Armed Service Committee has approved tentatively 43 air force construction projects. Acted on yesterday, they include: Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh, N. Y.—Airfield pavements, liquid fuel storage and dispensing facilities, communications, facilities for navigational aids and air field lighting, operations, aircraft maintenance, troop housing and messing, personnel and storage facilities, as well as land acquisition, $2,659,000.

Shavertown Bridge Work Will Start

About 50 iron workers are scheduled to start Monday on a bridge in the area of the Downsville dam at Shavertown.

The bridge will be about 2,000 feet long with abutments 90 feet high and will span the East Branch of the Delaware between two mountains. The work will be done by the Bethlehem Steel Co., of Pottstown, Pa.

Community Chest Gets Endorsement

Commerce Group Takes Action on Matter; New Committees

The proposed Kingston area Community Chest was officially endorsed by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting of the board of directors in the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday evening. A willingness to cooperate and assist was also included in the resolution adopted.

The personnel of 14 chamber committees proposed by President N. Jansen Fowler were approved with minor changes. After acceptance of the appointments have been obtained the committee assignments will be announced at the annual membership business meeting on April 21.

Under the revised by-laws adopted last year all committee assignments expire with the annual April membership meeting and new committees take office at that time. Several of the chairmen who have been serving as committee chairmen will be asked to continue serving and several new committees will be named including the following: Area Relations, Industrial Promotion and Cooperation, Retail Promotion and Coordination, Planning and Future Development and a Tax Committee.

A comprehensive outline of the 1954-55 membership campaign, recommended by the Membership Planning Committee, was approved. The fiscal or budget year starts on May 1 and most membership renewals become due at that time. A goal of 525 paid members was approved, an increase of 90 over the final 1953-54 total of 435. An effort will be made to secure increased financial support from present members. An intensive one-day drive for new membership applications will take place on Thursday, April 29.

Murrow Receives Peabody Award

No Mention Made of Row; Is Called Fighting Southerner

New York, April 14 (AP)—Edward R. Murrow today received a special George Foster Peadbody award just for "being himself."

The Awards Committee made no reference to Murrow's CBS television program on which he criticized Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), but it called Murrow "a fighting southerner" and congratulated two major companies "for having the good sense to be his sponsors."

Murrow has won Peabody awards three times previously.

Awards were announced at a luncheon in the Hotel Roosevelt of the Radio and Television Executives Society of New York by Dean John E. Drewry of the University of Georgia's Henry W. Grady School of Journalism.

The school, along with the Peabody board, administers the awards, which are in memory of the late New York banker of the same name, a native of Columbus, Ga.

To TV Programs

Honored along with Murrow were NBC comedy star Imogene Coca, TV newscaster Gerald W. Johnson of Baltimore (Station WAAM) and ABC radio newscaster Chet Huntley of Los Angeles (KABC).

NBC's television opera theatre again was chosen tops in the field of television music.

After referring to Murrow's birth in North Carolina, the citation continued, "He is a believer and he believes passionately in the capacity of this country to do the right thing. He is fair-minded and a fighter for justice. He is courageous with the courage that has compelled him again to take on assignments 'above and beyond the call of duty'. . . . We now dedicate this special award for being himself."

Other awards, the highest offered for production and performance in the broadcast field, were:

Television entertainment: A double award to Miss Coca for her "imp-like, contagious and entirely original humor," and to NBC's Television Playhouse under the leadership of Fred Coe, "the most consistent producer of fine television dramas."

Bank Committee Rushes to Get to Probe of Housing

Capehart Calls His Group to Closed Session to Prepare Quick Beginning

Washington, April 14 (AP)—Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) said today his Senate Banking Committee will ask for $250,000 to investigate what he called enormous, excessive profits by some builders of rental housing insured by the government.

"It looks as though there may be as much as 500 million dollars involved in this whole business," he said.

Capehart said the banking committee plans to conduct an immediate investigation of some 7,000 post World War 2 rental projects and all other phases of the government's many-sided housing program.

Under the rental housing program, the government insures up to 90 per cent of private loans made to builders covering the cost of the project.

In another phase of the housing scandal, there have been charges that the Federal Housing Administration allowed unscrupulous home repair salesmen to cheat unsuspecting homeowners.

Early Session Held

Washington, April 14 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee raced today to beat the field to a public investigation of a multi-million dollar housing scandal that apparently has flourished under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

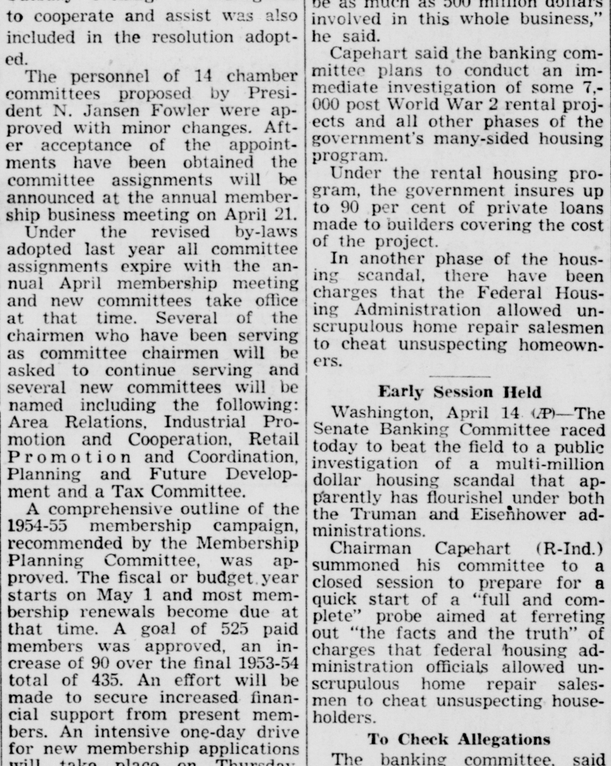

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) summoned his committee to a closed session to prepare for a quick start of a "full and complete" probe aimed at ferreting out "the facts and the truth" of charges that federal housing administration officials allowed unscrupulous home repair salesmen to cheat unsuspecting householders.

To Check Allegations

The banking committee, said Capehart, also will investigate allegations that slick apartment house promoters—aided by either dishonest or inefficient FHA officials — pocketed millions out of government-guaranteed loans

Two Out on Bail on Counts Of Printing Obscene Items

New York, April 14 (AP)—Samuel Roth, 59-year-old publisher wanted by U. S. Senate probers, and his wife, Pauline, 50, were released from jail in bail today on charges dealing with the alleged printing of obscene literature.

The husband was charged also with assault on a detective raiding their home.

The Roths were seized late yesterday in a raid on their Manhattan apartment (11 W. 81st street) shortly after a raid had been made on Roth's office (110 Lafayette street).

Authorities said the first raid by detectives from Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office netted armloads of books, pamphlets and magazines. Six Roth employes and the seized literature were taken to Hogan's office.

While the Roths and their employes were questioned at Hogan's office, attorneys for the U. S. Senate Subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency stood by with a subpoena calling Roth as a witness before the probers at a hearing here April 21 on his publishing activities.

The subcommittee attorneys, John Clendenin and Thomas Chumbers, said the senators had received "hundreds of complaints" about Roth's books.

The assault charge was lodged by Detective Herbert Hurley, 29, who was treated at a hospital for contusions of the neck after a struggle with Roth, authorities said.

The raid on the Roth home was carried out by Hurley and Detective William Haughie after Mag-

Cambodia Protests Against Invasion By Red-Led Units

Non-Member Nation Sends Note to Hammarskjold —Border Towns Attacked

Saigon, Indochina, April 14 (AP)—The Kingdom of Cambodia has protested to UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold against an invasion of that Indochinese state by Communist-led Vietminh.

The formal protest cable was sent to Cambodia's ambassador in Washington, Nong Kimmy, for delivery. Cambodia is not a member of the United Nations.

The charge against the Communist-dominated rebels was sent to the international organization following Viethminh infantry attacks in recent weeks on towns along Cambodia's northern border with her sister Indochinese Kingdom, Laos.

They are the first incursions by Vietminh regulars during the seven-year Indochina War, which centers in the coastal state of Viet Nam and occasionally in Laos. Cambodia's king Nordon Sihanouk is reported preparing an attack by his own forces on the invaders soon.

Goes Into Mourning

The protest was lodged as Cambodia went into mourning over the death Sunday of more than 60 persons in a Vietminh ambush attack on a crowded holiday train.

Vietminh mines blew up a train crammed with people headed for the capital for the Cambodian new year. Vietminh units then came out of hiding and set fire to 38 cars, most of them full of poor people.

The main violence of the Indochina war continued today around the besieged French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indochina.

The French High Command at Hanio said the rebels and the defenders kept up a "violent" artillery duel last night and today, but the Vietminh still had not launched their expected new all-out drive to overrun the fortress by human sea tactics.

Pressure Is Increased

Hanoi, Indochina, April 14 (AP)—The French High Command announced tonight Vietminh troops were "increasing their pressure" on the northwest corner of the fortress at Dien Bien Phu, which may be preliminary to launching a new attack.

The command spokesman said the Communist-led rebels had dug trenches close to the barbed wire defenses of the French in that sector, where the Vietminh masses have repeatedly tried to break through.

He announced the Vietminh last night exploded dozens of torpedo banglores under the steel matting of the main air strip in their second such attempt to cripple French planes from using it. Engineers speedily repaired the previous damage.

Draft Still Vital

Buffalo, April 14 (AP)—A deputy assistant secretary of defense says Selective Service will continue to be necessary "as long as the present tensions in the world continue." James M. Mitchell, speaking at a meeting of the National Vocational Guidance Assn., said yesterday an annual draft of 300,000 men still would be necessary.

Bidault Has Talks With Dulles Over Proposal for Asians

Paris, April 14 (AP)—British-American proposals for a military alliance to block Communist aggression in southeast Asia were accepted by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in discussions today with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, informed sources said.

A 10-nation pact is contemplated under the arrangements announced in London yesterday by Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

No official announcement of results of the Dulles-Bidault talks had been issued by midafternoon.

But informants said Bidault approved the Dulles-Eden plan because it "reconciles the views of the two great European powers with those of the United States."

Devoted to Far East

This morning's talks were devoted entirely to the Far East situation, especially that in Indochina.

The informants gave this account:

Bidault began with an expression of thanks to the United States for the material aid granted the French Union Forces in Indochina. He explained France wishes to reach a solution of the Indochinese conflict "as quickly as possible in order to meet her obligations toward the Indochinese associated states and suppress once and for all the dangers of Communist intrusion in this sector so important to southeast Asia."

Dulles replied with a detailed account of his talks in London and an explanation of the 10-nation alliance which he and Eden have suggested.

Two GOP Leaders Support Move

Democrat Says, However, France Should Grant Independence

Washington, April 14 (AP)—An American-British move to weld a defensive military alliance against communism in the Pacific won strong backing today from two Senate Republican leaders.

But Sen. Mansfield (D.-Mont.) said in a speech prepared for the Senate that unless France grants complete independence to Indochina the forth-coming Geneva Conference may end in "unmitigated disaster" inviting World War 3.

Chairman Ferguson (R.-Mich.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee praised an agreement reached in London between Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Minister Eden to work for organization of a military alliance to guard Asia against further Communist aggression.

Advocated Pact

Wiley said he had long advocated a Pacific pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

'No Label' Republican Is Illinois Primary Winner

Chicago, April 14 (AP)—Joseph T. Meek, who calls himself a "no label" unhyphenated Republican, romped off with the Illinois GOP senatorial nomination early today in the nation's first primary of 1954.

The 50-year-old head of an organization of 60,000 Illinois merchants, Meek has said he would support most but not necessarily all of President Eisenhower's policies. But he says, too, he is neither "a Taft-Republican nor an Eisenhower-Republican."

Yesterday's balloting produced no surprises, no upsets, no real tests on national issues, and probably the lightest vote of any Illinois primary in at least 10 years.

All 25 Illinois House members were renominated, including four committee chairmen who overpowered varying degrees of competition.

It will be Meek against Paul H. Douglas for the Senate in November—a man who never has run for public office, against a first-term Democrat.

The result of every race will be vital then in deciding whether Republicans or Democrats will control the next Congress. Democrats have a 48 to 46 edge in the

Eden Gives Report to His Nation

West Germans' Troops Would Be Included in Projected European Army

London, April 14 (AP)—Britain pledged today to keep troops on the European continent as long as there is a threat of aggression.

To speed French ratification of the six-nation European army treaty, Britain also offered to integrate army and air force units in the European Defense Community (EDC).

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced the pledge in the House of Commons to quiet fears in France—and among left wing Laborites at home—over rearming West Germany.

West German units would be included in the projected one-uniform European army.

Has Been Ratified

The U. S.-backed EDC treaty has been ratified by The Netherlands, Belgium, West Germany and Luxembourg. Only Italy and France have yet to enact the treaty legislation.

The British pledge represented an effort by London to meet a condition attached by the French Assembly to its own consideration of the treaty—closer British association with the defense organization.

Eden told Commons that Britain regards the 20-year NATO pact "as of indefinite duration, and are confident that it will develop as an enduring association for common action between the member states."

Eden disclosed Britain is "ready to place a British armored division within an EDC corps. This will be one of our armored divisions now in Germany."

Insisted on Preconditions

France, which has been hesitant to approve EDC because it calls for German rearmament, has insisted upon three preconditions before putting the scheme up for parliamentary approval.

These are:

1. Close British association with EDC and a London guarantee against withdrawal of British troops from the continent, France regards these troops as necessary to balance the proposed 12 west German divisions that EDC would bring into being.

2. A similar guarantee from the United States against withdrawal of American divisions. A U. S. pronouncement assuring the French the United States has no present intention of withdrawing its troops from Europe is expected some time before the EDC pact comes up for French ratification. The French Assembly is scheduled to take up the treaty after its Easter recess, which also means after the Geneva conference on Asian affairs.

3. Settlement of the French-German dispute over future control of the coal rich Saar.

Former Middletown School Head Dies

Middletown, April 14 (AP)—John W. Chorley, vice principal of Middletown High School for 28 years, is dead at 66.

Chorley resigned last Oct. 1, because of ill health. He died yesterday at his home at 205 Wisner avenue.

In addition to his school work, Chorley had been active in area Boy Scouting activities for 25 years.

Before coming to Middletown, Chorley was an instructor at the Utica Free Academy. Earlier he had worked on a newspaper in his home town, Skaneateles.

During World War 1 he served with a chemical warfare research unit at Washington, D. C.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. C. N. Tourat of Lexington, Mass. Private services will be held here Friday.

Trapped Four Hours

Alden, April 14 (AP)—Augustine Venditti, 13, was tapped four hours in a hollow tree trunk last night after he tried to catch a raccoon cub. He climbed to the top of the 16-foot-high, 2-foot thick trunk, then fell in feet first. He became wedged in, with only his head showing above. A passing neighbor heard his cries and summoned rescuers. Erie county sheriff's deputies, volunteer firemen, relatives and neighbors all joined in pulling him free.

Early Session Held

Washington, April 14 (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee raced today to beat the field to a public investigation of a multi-million dollar housing scandal that apparently has flourished under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

Chairman Capehart (R-Ind.) summoned his committee to a closed session to prepare for a quick start of a "full and complete" probe aimed at ferreting out "the facts and the truth" of charges that federal housing administration officials allowed unscrupulous home repair salesmen to cheat unsuspecting householders.

To Check Allegations

The banking committee, said Capehart, also will investigate allegations that slick apartment house promoters—aided by either dishonest or inefficient FHA officials — pocketed millions out of government-guaranteed loans

Childhood Tragedy

While J. C. Foster, 5, appears rather nonchalant about the entire happening, two other youngsters, Gail Daniels, 3, left, and Delores Foster, 3, right, appear distraught after flames razed their playhouse at Lynchburg, Va. Firemen blamed the unhappy blaze on "children playing with matches." (AP Wirephoto).

Two Out on Bail on Counts Of Printing Obscene Items

New York, April 14 (AP)—Samuel Roth, 59-year-old publisher wanted by U. S. Senate probers, and his wife, Pauline, 50, were released from jail in bail today on charges dealing with the alleged printing of obscene literature.

The husband was charged also with assault on a detective raiding their home.

The Roths were seized late yesterday in a raid on their Manhattan apartment (11 W. 81st street) shortly after a raid had been made on Roth's office (110 Lafayette street).

Authorities said the first raid by detectives from Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office netted armloads of books, pamphlets and magazines. Six Roth employes and the seized literature were taken to Hogan's office.

While the Roths and their employes were questioned at Hogan's office, attorneys for the U. S. Senate Subcommittee investigating juvenile delinquency stood by with a subpoena calling Roth as a witness before the probers at a hearing here April 21 on his publishing activities.

The subcommittee attorneys, John Clendenin and Thomas Chumbers, said the senators had received "hundreds of complaints" about Roth's books.

The assault charge was lodged by Detective Herbert Hurley, 29, who was treated at a hospital for contusions of the neck after a struggle with Roth, authorities said.

The raid on the Roth home was carried out by Hurley and Detective William Haughie after Mag-

Non-Member Nation Sends Note to Hammarskjold —Border Towns Attacked

Saigon, Indochina, April 14 (AP)—The Kingdom of Cambodia has protested to UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold against an invasion of that Indochinese state by Communist-led Vietminh.

The formal protest cable was sent to Cambodia's ambassador in Washington, Nong Kimmy, for delivery. Cambodia is not a member of the United Nations.

The charge against the Communist-dominated rebels was sent to the international organization following Viethminh infantry attacks in recent weeks on towns along Cambodia's northern border with her sister Indochinese Kingdom, Laos.

They are the first incursions by Vietminh regulars during the seven-year Indochina War, which centers in the coastal state of Viet Nam and occasionally in Laos. Cambodia's king Nordon Sihanouk is reported preparing an attack by his own forces on the invaders soon.

Goes Into Mourning

The protest was lodged as Cambodia went into mourning over the death Sunday of more than 60 persons in a Vietminh ambush attack on a crowded holiday train.

Vietminh mines blew up a train crammed with people headed for the capital for the Cambodian new year. Vietminh units then came out of hiding and set fire to 38 cars, most of them full of poor people.

The main violence of the Indochina war continued today around the besieged French Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indochina.

The French High Command at Hanio said the rebels and the defenders kept up a "violent" artillery duel last night and today, but the Vietminh still had not launched their expected new all-out drive to overrun the fortress by human sea tactics.

Pressure Is Increased

Hanoi, Indochina, April 14 (AP)—The French High Command announced tonight Vietminh troops were "increasing their pressure" on the northwest corner of the fortress at Dien Bien Phu, which may be preliminary to launching a new attack.

The command spokesman said the Communist-led rebels had dug trenches close to the barbed wire defenses of the French in that sector, where the Vietminh masses have repeatedly tried to break through.

He announced the Vietminh last night exploded dozens of torpedo banglores under the steel matting of the main air strip in their second such attempt to cripple French planes from using it. Engineers speedily repaired the previous damage.

Draft Still Vital

Buffalo, April 14 (AP)—A deputy assistant secretary of defense says Selective Service will continue to be necessary "as long as the present tensions in the world continue." James M. Mitchell, speaking at a meeting of the National Vocational Guidance Assn., said yesterday an annual draft of 300,000 men still would be necessary.

Bidault Has Talks With Dulles Over Proposal for Asians

Paris, April 14 (AP)—British-American proposals for a military alliance to block Communist aggression in southeast Asia were accepted by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault in discussions today with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, informed sources said.

A 10-nation pact is contemplated under the arrangements announced in London yesterday by Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

No official announcement of results of the Dulles-Bidault talks had been issued by midafternoon.

But informants said Bidault approved the Dulles-Eden plan because it "reconciles the views of the two great European powers with those of the United States."

Devoted to Far East

This morning's talks were devoted entirely to the Far East situation, especially that in Indochina.

The informants gave this account:

Bidault began with an expression of thanks to the United States for the material aid granted the French Union Forces in Indochina. He explained France wishes to reach a solution of the Indochinese conflict "as quickly as possible in order to meet her obligations toward the Indochinese associated states and suppress once and for all the dangers of Communist intrusion in this sector so important to southeast Asia."

Dulles replied with a detailed account of his talks in London and an explanation of the 10-nation alliance which he and Eden have suggested.

Two GOP Leaders Support Move

Democrat Says, However, France Should Grant Independence

Washington, April 14 (AP)—An American-British move to weld a defensive military alliance against communism in the Pacific won strong backing today from two Senate Republican leaders.

But Sen. Mansfield (D.-Mont.) said in a speech prepared for the Senate that unless France grants complete independence to Indochina the forth-coming Geneva Conference may end in "unmitigated disaster" inviting World War 3.

Chairman Ferguson (R.-Mich.) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee praised an agreement reached in London between Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Minister Eden to work for organization of a military alliance to guard Asia against further Communist aggression.

Advocated Pact

Wiley said he had long advocated a Pacific pact similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

"This may be the answer to our

'No Label' Republican Is Illinois Primary Winner

Chicago, April 14 (AP)—Joseph T. Meek, who calls himself a "no label" unhyphenated Republican, romped off with the Illinois GOP senatorial nomination early today in the nation's first primary of 1954.

The 50-year-old head of an organization of 60,000 Illinois merchants, Meek has said he would support most but not necessarily all of President Eisenhower's policies. But he says, too, he is neither "a Taft-Republican nor an Eisenhower-Republican."

Yesterday's balloting produced no surprises, no upsets, no real tests on national issues, and probably the lightest vote of any Illinois primary in at least 10 years.

All 25 Illinois House members were renominated, including four committee chairmen who overpowered varying degrees of competition.

It will be Meek against Paul H. Douglas for the Senate in November—a man who never has run for public office against a first-term Democrat.

The result of every race will be vital then in deciding whether Republicans or Democrats will control the next Congress. Democrats have a 48 to 46 edge in the

Eden Gives Report to His Nation

West Germans' Troops Would Be Included in Projected European Army

London, April 14 (AP)—Britain pledged today to keep troops on the European continent as long as there is a threat of aggression.

To speed French ratification of the six-nation European army treaty, Britain also offered to integrate army and air force units in the European Defense Community (EDC).

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced the pledge in the House of Commons to quiet fears in France—and among left wing Laborites at home—over rearming West Germany.

West German units would be included in the projected one-uniform European army.

Has Been Ratified

The U. S.-backed EDC treaty has been ratified by The Netherlands, Belgium, West Germany and Luxembourg. Only Italy and France have yet to enact the treaty legislation.

The British pledge represented an effort by London to meet a condition attached by the French Assembly to its own consideration of the treaty—closer British association with the defense organization.

Eden told Commons that Britain regards the 20-year NATO pact "as of indefinite duration, and are confident that it will develop as an enduring association for common action between the member states."

Eden disclosed Britain is "ready to place a British armored division within an EDC corps. This will be one of our armored divisions now in Germany."

Insisted on Preconditions

France, which has been hesitant to approve EDC because it calls for German rearmament, has insisted upon three preconditions before putting the scheme up for parliamentary approval.

These are:

1. Close British association with EDC and a London guarantee against withdrawal of British troops from the continent, France regards these troops as necessary to balance the proposed 12 west German divisions that EDC would bring into being.

2. A similar guarantee from the United States against withdrawal of American divisions. A U. S. pronouncement assuring the French the United States has no present intention of withdrawing its troops from Europe is expected some time before the EDC pact comes up for French ratification. The French Assembly is scheduled to take up the treaty after its Easter recess, which also means after the Geneva conference on Asian affairs.

3. Settlement of the French-German dispute over future control of the coal rich Saar.

Former Middletown School Head Dies

Middletown, April 14 (AP)—John W. Chorley, vice principal of Middletown High School for 28 years, is dead at 66.

Chorley resigned last Oct. 1, because of ill health. He died yesterday at his home at 205 Wisner avenue.

In addition to his school work, Chorley had been active in area Boy Scouting activities for 25 years.

Before coming to Middletown, Chorley was an instructor at the Utica Free Academy. Earlier he had worked on a newspaper in his home town, Skaneateles.

During World War 1 he served with a chemical warfare research unit at Washington, D. C.

He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. C. N. Tourat of Lexington, Mass. Private services will be held here Friday.

Trapped Four Hours

Alden, April 14 (AP)—Augustine Venditti, 13, was tapped four hours in a hollow tree trunk last night after he tried to catch a raccoon cub. He climbed to the top of the 16-foot-high, 2-foot thick trunk, then fell in feet first. He became wedged in, with only his head showing above. A passing neighbor heard his cries and summoned rescuers. Erie county sheriff's deputies, volunteer firemen, relatives and neighbors all joined in pulling him free.

Marbletown Central

Easter Program

A play, All About Spring, was given by students from grades three, four and five Wednesday morning. The cast included Patricia Parete, Susan Schwarz, Jeanne De Graw, Betty Larsen, Gail Elias, Philip Davenport, Gary Solona, Howard Baker, Louisa Knudsen, Edgar Roesch and James Ostrander. Grades four and five held group singing and were accompanied by Gail Elias at the piano. Grade three singing groups were accompanied by Delores Avery. Gigi Karley presented an acrobatic dance called The Peanut Vender.

Correlated Program

Reading in the seventh and eighth grades is correlated with the English program. The children gather material in the form of newspaper clippings, magazine articles and pamphlets which they read to the class or post on the bulletin board to be read silently Test questions and sentences are analyzed for their real meaning. Reference books have been used for reports on factual articles. One interesting study has been to learn the meaning of the words in the Pledge of Allegiance, and the memorization of the American's Creed. There will be work on phonics, word meanings, and word building reviews before the year is over. Earlier in the term the tape recorder was used to improve diction, and stories were broadcast over the sound system to the primary grades as part of the reading program.

Reports Given

At present, each day four children volunteer to read portions of some book, poem, story, or article which they feel sure will interest the class. In seventh grade, Gail Harford read a poem about robins. Jean Apjohn brought This is the House that Jack Built, which was read in unison. The Concord Hymn was read by Catherine Badenbach and John Parete selected parts of Robinson Crusoe. Reading participation of eighth graders and their reports last week included: Brian Rind, Russia; Florence Schleede, Managing Weather; Donna Homfeld, Stickeen; Robert Kelder, Edison; Sonia Karley, Queen of Greece; Bruce Ruffner, The Giant's Foot; Robert Rensing, Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo; Herbert Christiana, Lobo, The Wolf.

Library Popular

During the year eight new books have been added to the seventh grade classroom library. Each Monday three children from each room are taken by school bus to the local library where they get books for themselves and others in the class. Thus they gather material for the written book reports which will soon be due. Magazines are issued to each grade. These may be exhanged from one grade to another, making available reading on both lower and higher levels and covering a variety of interests. Some of the titles include; Good Housekeeping, Popular Science, Popular Mechanics, Readers Digest, Children's Digest, Children's Activities, Life, Outdoor Life, as well as Read, Current Events and Current Science.

Marbletown Central

Easter Program

A play, All About Spring, was given by students from grades three, four and five Wednesday morning. The cast included Patricia Parete, Susan Schwarz, Jeanne De Graw, Betty Larsen, Gail Elias, Philip Davenport, Gary Solona, Howard Baker, Louisa Knudsen, Edgar Roesch and James Ostrander. Grades four and five held group singing and were accompanied by Gail Elias at the piano. Grade three singing groups were accompanied by Delores Avery. Gigi Karley presented an acrobatic dance called The Peanut Vender.

Correlated Program

Reading in the seventh and eighth grades is correlated with the English program. The children gather material in the form of newspaper clippings, magazine articles and pamphlets which they read to the class or post on the bulletin board to be read silently. Test questions and sentences are analyzed for their real meaning. Reference books have been used for reports on factual articles. One interesting study has been to learn the meaning of the words in the Pledge of Allegiance, and the memorization of the American's Creed. There will be work on phonics, word meanings, and word building reviews before the year is over. Earlier in the term the tape recorder was used to improve diction, and stories were broadcast over the sound system to the primary grades as part of the reading program.

Reports Given

At present, each day four children volunteer to read portions of some book, poem, story, or article which they feel sure will interest the class. In seventh grade, Gail Harford read a poem about robins. Jean Apjohn brought This is the House that Jack Built, which was read in unison. The Concord Hymn was read by Catherine Badenbach and John Parete selected parts of Robinson Crusoe. Reading participation of eighth graders and their reports last week included: Brian Rind, Russia; Florence Schleede, Managing Weather; Donna Homfeld, Stickeen; Robert Kelder, Edison; Sonia Karley, Queen of Greece; Bruce Ruffner, The Giant's Foot; Robert Rensing, Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo; Herbert Christiana, Lobo, The Wolf.

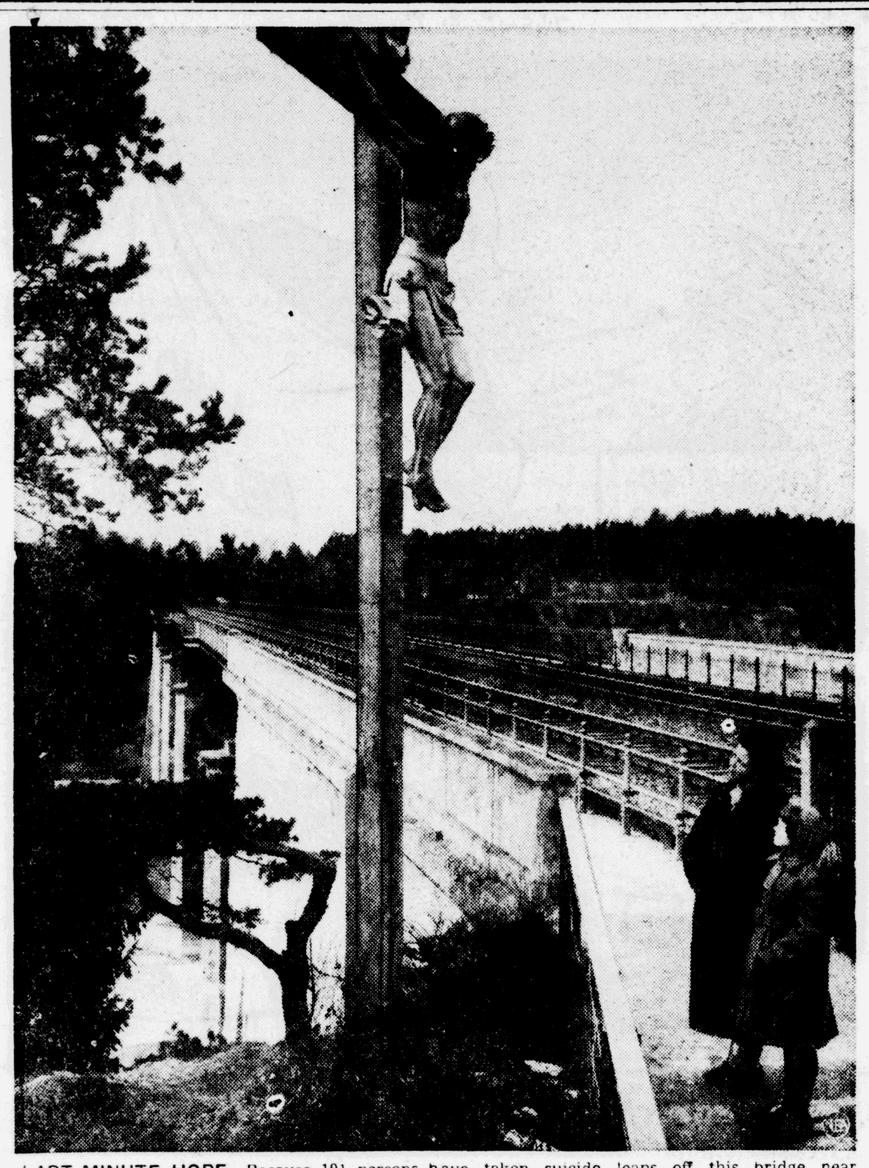

Library Popular

During the year eight new books have been added to the seventh grade classroom library. Each Monday three children from each room are taken by school bus to the local library where they get books for themselves and others in the class. Thus they gather material for the written book reports which will soon be due. Magazines are issued to each grade. These may be exhanged from one grade to another, making available reading on both lower and higher levels and covering a variety of interests. Some of the titles include: Good Housekeeping, Popular Science, Popular Mechanics, Readers Digest, Children's Digest, Children's Activities, Life, Outdoor Life, as well as Read, Current Events and Current Science.

CURBING H-BOMBS

Britain, France and the United States have urged an early meeting of the United Nations disarmament commission to discuss ways of saving the world from threat of mass destruction in a hydrogen war. Russia is also said to favor such talks.

It must be pointed out, however, that the reason progress has not been made so far on controlling atomic and hydrogen weapons is that the Russians have been reluctant to accept any practical plan for such controls. Years ago there was talk of banning such weapons but the Reds would not agree to any inspection which would make certain that all parties would abide by any agreement. President Eisenhower's hopeful proposal to pool atomic materials as the first step to bringing atomic energy under international control was turned down by the Russians.

We must be ready at all times to talk about ways of avoiding hydrogen warfare. But banning hydrogen and atomic bombs would be useless if other weapons are not also curtailed. If the Russians are really sincere they will have to show it by indicating willingness to solve all the problems which separate the East from West.

A recent headline informed us that a scientist wants the United States to hurry in the race for the moon. We have all we can do to make that early morning bus that takes us to work.

MOTOR VEHICLE BUSINESS

The extent to which the automobile has become a part of our daily lives is reflected in the compilation of motor vehicle registrations, licenses and fees for the year 1953.

In Ulster County during the past year there were 40,838 vehicles registered according to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Macduff. Making up this total registration here were 31,089 passenger, 6,138 commercial, 1,311 trailer and 2,300 other vehicles.

Motor vehicle fees collected in Ulster County last year amounted to $845,719.65. Fees from licenses were chauffeur, $11,619; operator, $20,385.50; other, $29,243. The total fees and licenses amounted to $906,967.16.

In New York State, motor vehicle registration for the year hit a record high of 4,328,125.

At the end of the year, 3,936,315 driver licenses were in force. These included 4,599,457 operator licenses, 1,290,528 chauffeur licenses and 86,240 junior operator licenses.

Motor vehicle fees for the year in the state grossed $96,615,795.62.

Has any scientist ever conducted a study to determine whether there is any correlation between the start of baseball season and the epidemic of sick grandmothers which occurs every spring?

GUARANTEE OF VALUE

All of us naturally like to find bargains. All of us, when shopping, try to get top return for each dollar spent. And in the long-run, the surest way to achieve that is to patronize established merchants who are concerned with the future—not just today's sales.

That was the theme of an editorial in the Garner, Iowa, Leader. The paper advised its readers: "In any hometown, the reputable merchants and dealers will be the kind of people that you like and trust. This editor does not think you will lose any peace of mind or money if you rely on them for good values at a fair price. I am sure you will find this procedure is much safer and simpler than searching for bargains in strange places."

Many a "bargain", bought at an alleged big discount from some fly-by-night operator, has proven worthless. The established local merchants, chain and independent, have to protect their reputations—and that's your best guarantee of value.

Nothing can make a fellow go wild like wildlife when it goes wild over his new-sown lawn seed.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AN INTERESTING POLL

The other day I went up to the College of the City of New York to argue and picked up the college newspaper and found in it a poll among 11 per cent of the student body. It contained five questions, the first being:

"1. Do you think Communists should be permitted to teach in colleges?"

"Yes . . . 269 No . . . 380 Undecided . . . 87"

The second question is significant:

"2. Do you feel that instructors at this college tend to avoid discussions of 'controversial' issues in the classroom?

"Yes . . . 385 No . . . 321 Undecided . . . 32"

In my day, four decades ago, professors were most controversial even in the natural sciences. I was a student under Charles A. Beard when he introduced an economic interpretation of the American Constitution and President William Howard Taft throught that he ought to be fired for corrupting the young. I recall "Uncle Charlie" Beard saying:

"While there are pigs in Indiana and corn to feed the pigs, Charlie Beard will say what he pleases."

That was an economic interpretation of "Uncle Charlie," who owned a farm in Indiana. Such men as James Harvey Robinson, Carlton Hayes, James T. Shotwell, Vladimir Simkhovitch, and so many others were never afraid that they would lose their jobs. When some of them were forced to leave the university because they opposed World War I, they founded their own school. Somehow, they did not fear unpopularity or the corroding effects of popularity.

No one has yet discovered a superior method for sharpening the mind, for taking the egotistic kinks out of one's pride of position, than by disputation.

The answers to the third question show how the young feel about it:

"3. Do you feel that students at this college tend to avoid discussion of 'controversial' issues in the classroom?

"Yes . . . 185 No . . . 518 Undecided . . .28"

Of course, the young are controversial, as they should be. In my day, many a professor threw a statement at the class to start a rumpus which lasted for days.

The next question puzzled me, but the students gave it an overwhelming vote:

"4. Would you sign a petition containing the words: 'Whenever any form of government becomes destructive of the welfare of the people, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and to institute new government'?

"Yes . . . 415 No . . . 133 Undecided . . . 188"

This question is a corrupted paraphrase of a sentence in the Declaration of Independence, where it appears in this form:

". . . That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. . . ."

No such word as "welfare" appears in the statement in the Declaration of Independence. In fact, this sentence is in the paragraph which begins with the words, "We hold these truths to be self-evident. . . ." You can read it yourselves to advantage because in it is the whole of American philosophy of life and government. Thomas Jefferson was not concerned with "welfare" but with "rights," with "unalienable rights" because they came from the Creator.

I was particularly impressed with the twist in the question as presented to the students because it avoids the fundamental American concept that man, as a created being, possesses human rights, not a gift from government but from God, and these rights the Declaration stipulates partially thus: "among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The "welfare state" is not of this order; it tends to make man dependent upon the state, and in the end welfare becomes more important to the individual than his rights. Maybe that is why the students say their professors avoid controversy, although that is an essence of education.

The final question was:

"5. Do you feel that Congressional investigating committees are harming education?

"Yes . . . 458 No . . . 225 Undecided . . . 53"

If we define education as the nourishing of the mind and body of the young or as imparting knowledge, how can a Congressional investigation interfere with that even if a teacher is asked whether he is a Communist or a spy? The tiny percentage of teachers who are questioned undoubtedly knew that the day would come when they would be questioned because they always knew what they had done.

BACKACHE IN DYSPEPSIA

Many of us think of backache as being caused by rheumatism, or by injury such as lifting. It may surprise many to learn that dyspepsia (indigestion) is a common cause of backache.

In Annals of Rheumatic Diseases, London, Dr. J. X. Beattie states, "It is well known that backache occurs in spinal disorders involving the skeletal structures. Backache is also recognized as a feature in diseases of women, organic nervous diseases and states of anxiety and hysteria. Much less appreciated is the fact that backache may be caused by various disturbances of the stomach and intestines (intra-abdominal disorders). As far back as 1829, a noted physician, Cruveilher, observed that many patients complain more of a tenderness or a painful spot in the spine than of these symptoms in the stomach region."

Dr. Beattie shows that the association of backache with dyspepsia is often overlooked and presents histories of four patients in whom backache was the predominant or an additional feature in the presence of ulceration of stomach and intestine or a new growth.

"A conversation with a fifth patient with an ulcer of the duodenum brought out the information that during an attack of severe indigestion the pain in the back was considerably more severe than the discomfort in the stomach."

Other cases have been seen in which backaches occurred with stomach discomfort and pain. The back pain was as troublesome as the indigestion and sometimes worse. In some cases the pain in the stomach radiated through to the back. By paying close or more attention to the stomach ulcer, giving it proper ulcer treatment relief was obtained for both the stomach and the back symptoms.

As stomach symptoms may be overlooked as a cause of backache, Dr. Beattie states that the importance of the symptom of backache in stomach and intestinal diseases and the mechanism by which these symptoms are caused should receive more attention for orthopedic, arthritis, and other specialists who spend their efforts in trying to locate the specific or special cause of the backache in which the underlying cause is indigestion in many cases.

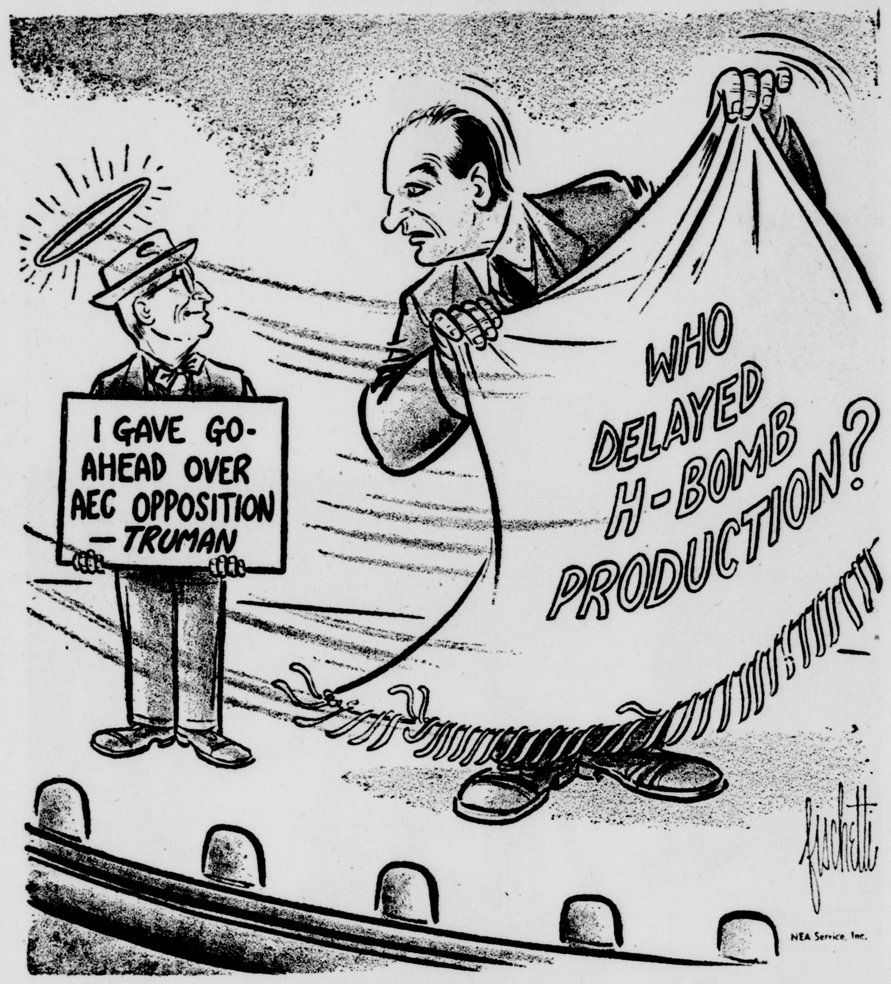

As we think over these cases of indigestion, we should try to keep in mind the well-known fact that, as stated by Chesterton, a sleepless night, an attack of indigestion, and a rainy morning can make a coward out of a man who might otherwise have been a hero. Certainly, an attack of indigestion can cause symptoms such as backache in many individuals. The point is that unfortunately few of us think of backache as being caused by dyspepsia.

The Great Unveiling

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington, (NEA) — Democratic National Committee Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell's letter denying party backing to California congressional candidates Robbert Condon and James Roosevelt was his own idea.

Chairman Mitchell discussed the subject informally with several Democratic Executive Committee leaders. But there was no formal meeting of this group to approve the Mitchell policy and it was not cleared with Party Chief Adlai Stevenson.

Chairman Mitchell did considerable soul-searching and wrote several drafts of the letter to make sure it said just what he wanted it to say before he let it go.

The idea of having a national party organization clean its own house has received general commendation. But the usual practice is for a national party headquarters to keep its hands completely out of state primary contests.

There is only one known precedent for Mitchell's action in American political history, and it was considerably different. This was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's attempted purge of anti-New Deal Democratic candidates in the 1936 congressional primaries.

Roosevelt's action was based on ideological differences. It was not on any question of personal or political turpitude, such as Messrs. Roosevelt and Condon have been accused of.

Chairman Mitchell's new policy, of taking "every proper action to protect the reputation as well as the character of our party so that it may accomplish its destiny for the common good," may be reviewed by the full Democratic National Committee when it meets in Washington in May.

But there is little chance his action will be reversed.

WHATEVER union officials may think and say about the Administration's labor policies, U. S. strikes in February were at a new eight-year low for the month. Department of Labor figures show 200 new strikes reported in February, 1954. They involved 50,000 workers.

All strikes in progress during the month, included those that started previously, numbered 350. They involved 100,000 workers.

Since all of the strikes were small, total man-days of idleness were estimated at 750,000, or less than one tenth of one per cent of all working time in all industries.

Main reason given for the low strike record is, of course, that there has been considerable unemployment. When jobs are scarce, people hang onto them tighter, and there is less opportunity for union bargaining agents to make new demands on employers.

"Let's suppose for a moment that we were to load on a single train of the wheat which the Commodity Credit Corp., today has under loan and in its inventories.

"Such a train would extend all the way from San Francisco to New York, and then back to St. Louis—4222 miles.

If we loaded all the corn tied up in CCC price support operations on a single train, the caboose would be in Los Angeles and the locomotive in Newark, N. J. This train would be 3052 miles long.

"A train loaded with all the wheat, corn, flaxseed, soybeans and small grains in which the CCC funds are today invested would be 8123 miles long. It would reach one third of the way around the world."

Members of the Senate investigating subcommittee were really embarrassed about not having fully checked up on the record of Boston attorney Samuel P. Seals before appointing him to handle the Army-McCarthy fight.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) admitted later that when the subcommittee members first agreed on the appointment, they didn't even have his name right. They had been calling him "Spears."

The word is out in aviation circles that Sen. W. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) has been designated as the Number One critic of the Eisenhower administration's "New Look" in the armed forces.

Symington has already made one full-length speech in the Senate attacking the new defense policies.

Various aviation interests are quietly egging the senator on to make other speeches of the same sort at the rate of about one a week.

Symington had been both secretary of the Air Force and chairman of the National Security Council before he was elected to the Senate.

Oppenheimer Case Displays What U. S. Faces; Status Is Uncertain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 14—The strange case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, leading atomic scientist, who has been formally suspended by President Eisenhower and the Atomic Energy Commission from access to classified material pending a study of his security status, illustrates better than millions of words of debate or television pictures what a difficult problem the government of the United States is up against nowadays.

On the one hand, the congressional committees are assailed as unfair and as engaged in "witch hunting," and the cry is heard that every man must be considered innocent until proved guilty. But, on the other hand, affiliation with the government is not a right or privilege and employes can be ruled as security risks merely because there is reasonable doubt as to their eligiblity to remain in the government. It is not a court procedure at all.

At this writing, nobody knows whether Dr. Oppenheimer is or is not a good security risk for continuance as a member of the Science Advisory Committee under the Office of Defense Mobilization. His file has been under review for some time, and his suspension took place in December 1953. In accordance with the rules of fair play, the Eisenhower administration didn't publicize this fact. It refused to be a party to the arousing of pubic suspicion, since it was not prejudging the case but was dealing with it confidentially and in an orderly manner.

Then how did it get into the headlines? It came from the Oppenheimer side. Selected newspaper reporters were given all the documents and the right to publish them Tuesday morning. The all-important fact that the initiative came from the Oppenheimer side—probably his attorneys—was not disclosed in the press in the articles on Tuesday morning. The Atomic Energy Commission, however, promptly issued a statement, declaring that it had sought to "protect the privacy of individuals appearing before its personnel security boards" and that "departure from this practice in this instance is only due to the fact that Dr. Oppenheimer has exercised his privilege of making public an account of the matter." cide on full publicity? It is often done as a device to forestall an attack, and pehaps in this case the hint given by Senator McCarthy in his television speech last week—without mentioning any names—that there was something mysterious about the delay in deciding to make the H-bomb indicated that maybe the Wisconsin senator himself was going to blow the lid off. Hence it may have seemed better to get all the documents out first, with the Oppenheimer version given sympathetic handling in the press.

Now it is disclosed by Senator Mundt of South Dakota and by members of the House that the whole matter was under scrutiny by the McCarthy Committee about last May but that the Wisconsin senator had decided several months ago not to go into the subject, since it would be handled by another committee or executive agency.

It could be that the speech by Senator McCarthy had no relationship to the Oppenheimer publicity effort to argue the case in advance, yet the effect was to link the two in public speculation. The situation is by no means clarified yet, and the strategists who advised Dr. Oppenheimer may find in the end they made a mistake in forcing the case into the open before all the facts had been gathered and the investigation had been completed.

So far as the public is concerned, it now will want to know not so much the details of the "derogatory information" in the file of Dr. Oppenheimer—as the phrase is used by the Atomic Energy Commission in its statement—but the reasons and motivations for some of the curious recommendations of policy made by the scientists. In the top councils of the government, for example, he opposed the strategic air command concept of the U. S. Air Force and delved in military strategy. He opposed the use of bombs as a "deterrent." He argued for more disclosures to the world of atomic data, and he was opposed to the development of the H-bomb. A restatement of Dr. Oppenheimer's views now become more important than ever.

The whole episode illustrates why it isn't so easy to dispose of security questions without a lot of background and why publicity isn't always the fault of the congressional committees.

Dr. Oppenheimer was a leader and his leadership meant that nearly all the scientists were opposed to American development of the H-bomb. The average citizen will wonder why he was so active in matters outside the field of science, but it is only fair that the Oppenheimer case not be prejudged till all the facts are revealed.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 13—I find it impossible to outline a criticism of the American press and to propose remedies or controls without violating the spirit of freedom of the press. However, the press certainly has faults which are dangerous to the people and these should be discussed for the benefit of the public. In a spirit of fellowship our papers and magazines refuse to speak ill of one another lest general recriminations should ensue, but this is not good for either the public or the press.

Roy Howard used to say, "It is an evil bird that fouls its own nest," but I say the press has fallen into bad habits and that no other force in our country is as well qualified to expose and discuss its intentional evils and unintentional errors.

We who are actually the press, the men and women who write for and produce the publications, know how human we are. We know very well that there are certain taboos and that the prejudice and personal animosity of one man, or that man's wife, may cause information to be held back from the public or published in distorted form.

A few days ago a dispatch from London said Winston Churchill was getting a robust ribbing from the press of London over the H-bomb deal. It was the worst blow to his power that had befallen since he ran the Marxists out of office. I examined this dispatch and discovered that this disapproval was expressed by the Times of London and some other London and provincial papers.

And what are these papers? They are words in ink on white newsprint. That is all they are. Whose words are these words? Well, they are the words of anonymous individuals who may have dishonest or selfish motives for saying this or that or suppressing information. The individuals may be high-minded and mistaken or sinister schemers taking a delight in the manipulation of public opinion.

At any rate, when the anopymous individual who is actually the spirit and voice of the Times of London, speaks his piece, he speaks with a power which is vast by comparison with that of another individual Englishman who may be just as wise and honest or much more so. The editor may have the power to overthrow a government which the people would rather retain in office.

I got back to 1910 in our press, but I will not pretend that my ideas during my formative years were very intelligent. The Socialists then howled that the press of our cities was controlled by the department stores. I didn't believe it, but I didn't have much sound information one way or another. However, I do know that nowadays editors have become handshakers and speech-makers.

They go to banquets of all sorts of business associations and politico-religious groups organized to exert "pressure." They accept and sometimes award medals, scrolls, plaques and the like which are just trash of no moral value whatever. One does it because he knows that if he doesn't do it his opposite number on the opposition paper will leap at the chance.

They think or pretend to think that they are taking the pulse of the leaders of the community at these things but in real fact they are listening to their masters express their desires. Don't tell me I am wrong. I know. So does every other newspaperman and so do most of the dominant business men and the politico-clerical element of banqueteers.

I was a little startled by my own audacity recently in giving consideration to a suggestion that the press be investigated by Congress. It would have been unthinkable to me 10 years ago. But now I had arrived at a realization that with our tremendous power to play on public opinion we had developed no great editors except great in the sense of bigness.

Henry Luce has become a giant in this respect, but he certainly is no moral giant. Go back over his career and observe the deliberate cultivation of a style of nasty abuse and the adoption of a jerked-English gibberish invented by Briton Hadden, his early partner in "Time," and you will see that the man never was the sort of person who should be trusted with such enormous power over the minds and thus the fate of the people. He takes digs at people for personal reasons, leaving the public with a distorted idea of their character and conduct. I can list many individuals in more or less public life who invariably get a dirty deal from Luce no matter what the facts and circumstances may be.

Would you say that a publisher who, for profit only, prints a columnist whom he knows to be a liar and blackmailer is any better, morally, than a druggist who sells cocaine to teen-agers for the same motive? Yet every publisher in the business knows that a columnist who answers this description is widely published by newspapers including some which have frankly admitted that he is a liar and blackmailer.

I find nothing to bear out any contention that the press had a finer moral character 50 years ago. I find that it was about the same in this respect. But I doubt this so few individuals exerted so much influence over the affairs of this nation. There are only a handful of publishers now and the power they wield seems to be much greater and more immediate than the power of the many competitive operators of say 1900.

Joe Kennedy recently said in effect that Republican publishers were making a bad political mistake this year in not creating "unity" for the party. I disagreed. I said that on the contrary, most of them were trying to convince themselves that a Socialist program is Republican and are "supporting" Eisenhower by suppressing criticism of his policies and ability. On top of that, however, I insisted that the press should practice journalism, not politics.

Bill Hearst wrote with perfect honesty in the summer of 1952 that it was the personal decision of his late father, "pop" as Bill affectionately called him, which decided the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democratic Convention in Chicago 20 years before. "Pop" did this by releasing the Garner delegation to Roosevelt. There were other details but that is the gist of it and that is exactly how it happened that we got Roosevelt for four terms and the awful disaster to western civilization and the rise of Soviet power and the military menace of the oriental millions.

To be sure, Mr. Hearst did his patriotic best to reverse his own mistake with Landon in 1936, but that is beside the point. Actually one man, aging and aloof on a mountain overlooking the Pacific made a decision by telephone which was responsible for all these consequences to the whole world.

This is the Power of the Press.

CURBING H-BOMBS

Britain, France and the United States have urged an early meeting of the United Nations disarmament commission to discuss ways of saving the world from threat of mass destruction in a hydrogen war. Russia is also said to favor such talks.

It must be pointed out, however, that the reason progress has not been made so far on controlling atomic and hydrogen weapons is that the Russians have been reluctant to accept any practical plan for such controls. Years ago there was talk of banning such weapons but the Reds would not agree to any inspection which would make certain that all parties would abide by any agreement. President Eisenhower's hopeful proposal to pool atomic materials as the first step to bringing atomic energy under international control was turned down by the Russians.

We must be ready at all times to talk about ways of avoiding hydrogen warfare. But banning hydrogen and atomic bombs would be useless if other weapons are not also curtailed. If the Russians are really sincere they will have to show it by indicating willingness to solve all the problems which separate the East from West.

A recent headline informed us that a scientist wants the United States to hurry in the race for the moon. We have all we can do to make that early morning bus that takes us to work.

MOTOR VEHICLE BUSINESS

The extent to which the automobile has become a part of our daily lives is reflected in the compilation of motor vehicle registrations, licenses and fees for the year 1953.

In Ulster County during the past year there were 40,838 vehicles registered according to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Macduff. Making up this total registration here were 31,089 passenger, 6,138 commercial, 1,311 trailer and 2,300 other vehicles.

Motor vehicle fees collected in Ulster County last year amounted to $845,719.65. Fees from licenses were chauffeur, $11,619; operator, $20,385.50; other, $29,243. The total fees and licenses amounted to $906,967.16.

In New York State, motor vehicle registration for the year hit a record high of 4,328,125.

At the end of the year, 5,936,315 driver licenses were in force. These included 4,599,457 operator licenses, 1,290,528 chauffeur licenses and 86,240 junior operator licenses.

Motor vehicle fees for the year in the state grossed $96,615,795.62.

Has any scientist ever conducted a study to determine whether there is any correlation between the start of baseball season and the epidemic of sick grandmothers which occurs every spring?

GUARANTEE OF VALUE

All of us naturally like to find bargains. All of us, when shopping, try to get top return for each dollar spent. And in the long-run, the surest way to achieve that is to patronize established merchants who are concerned with the future—not just today's sales.

That was the theme of an editorial in the Garner, Iowa, Leader. The paper advised its readers: "In any hometown, the reputable merchants and dealers will be the kind of people that you like and trust. This editor does not think you will lose any peace of mind or money if you rely on them for good values at a fair price. I am sure you will find this procedure is much safer and simpler than searching for bargains in strange places."

Many a "bargain", bought at an alleged big discount from some fly-by-night operator, has proven worthless. The established local merchants, chain and independent, have to protect their reputations—and that's your best guarantee of value.

Nothing can make a fellow go wild like wildlife when it goes wild over his new-sown lawn seed.

'These Days'

AN INTERESTING POLL

The other day I went up to the College of the City of New York to argue and picked up the college newspaper and found in it a poll among 11 per cent of the student body. It contained five questions, the first being:

"1. Do you think Communists should be permitted to teach in colleges?"

"Yes . . . 269 No . . . 380 Undecided . . . 87"

The second question is significant:

"2. Do you feel that instructors at this college tend to avoid discussions of 'controversial' issues in the classroom?

"Yes . . . 385 No . . . 321 Undecided . . . 32"

In my day, four decades ago, professors were most controversial even in the natural sciences. I was a student under Charles A. Beard when he introduced an economic interpretation of the American Constitution and President William Howard Taft throught that he ought to be fired for corrupting the young. I recall "Uncle Charlie" Beard saying:

"While there are pigs in Indiana and corn to feed the pigs, Charlie Beard will say what he pleases."

That was an economic interpretation of "Uncle Charlie," who owned a farm in Indiana. Such men as James Harvey Robinson, Carlton Hayes, James T. Shotwell, Vladimir Simkhovitch, and so many others were never afraid that they would lose their jobs. When some of them were forced to leave the university because they opposed World War I, they founded their own school. Somehow, they did not fear unpopularity or the corroding effects of popularity.

No one has yet discovered a superior method for sharpening the mind, for taking the egotistic kinks out of one's pride of position, than by disputation.

The answers to the third question show how the young feel about it:

"3. Do you feel that students at this college tend to avoid discussion of 'controversial' issues in the classroom?

"Yes . . . 185 No . . . 518 Undecided . . .28"

Of course, the young are controversial, as they should be. In my day, many a professor threw a statement at the class to start a rumpus which lasted for days.

The next question puzzled me, but the students gave it an overwhelming vote:

"4. Would you sign a petition containing the words: 'Whenever any form of government becomes destructive of the welfare of the people, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and to institute new government'?

"Yes . . . 415 No . . . 133 Undecided . . . 188"

This question is a corrupted paraphrase of a sentence in the Declaration of Independence, where it appears in this form:

". . . That whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. . . ."

No such word as "welfare" appears in the statement in the Declaration of Independence. In fact, this sentence is in the paragraph which begins with the words, "We hold these truths to be self-evident. . . ." You can read it yourselves to advantage because in it is the whole of American philosophy of life and government. Thomas Jefferson was not concerned with "welfare" but with "rights," with "unalienable rights" because they came from the Creator.

I was particularly impressed with the twist in the question as presented to the students because it avoids the fundamental American concept that man, as a created being, possesses human rights, not a gift from government but from God, and these rights the Declaration stipulates partially thus: "among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The "welfare state" is not of this order; it tends to make man dependent upon the state, and in the end welfare becomes more important to the individual than his rights. Maybe that is why the students say their professors avoid controversy, although that is an essence of education.

The final question was:

"5. Do you feel that Congressional investigating committees are harming education?

"Yes . . . 458 No . . . 225 Undecided . . . 53"

If we define education as the nourishing of the mind and body of the young or as imparting knowledge, how can a Congressional investigation interfere with that even if a teacher is asked whether he is a Communist or a spy? The tiny percentage of teachers who are questioned undoubtedly knew that the day would come when they would be questioned because they always knew what they had done.

BACKACHE IN DYSPEPSIA

Many of us think of backache as being caused by rheumatism, or by injury such as lifting. It may surprise many to learn that dyspepsia (indigestion) is a common cause of backache.

In Annals of Rheumatic Diseases, London, Dr. J. X. Beattie states, "It is well known that backache occurs in spinal disorders involving the skeletal structures. Backache is also recognized as a feature in diseases of women, organic nervous diseases and states of anxiety and hysteria. Much less appreciated is the fact that backache may be caused by various disturbances of the stomach and intestines (intra-abdominal disorders). Dr. Beattie shows that the association of backache with dyspepsia is often overlooked and presents histories of four patients in whom backache was the predominant or an additional feature in the presence of ulceration of stomach and intestine or a new growth.

"A conversation with a fifth patient with an ulcer of the duodenum brought out the information that during an attack of severe indigestion the pain in the back was considerably more severe than the discomfort in the stomach."

Other cases have been seen in which backaches occurred with stomach discomfort and pain. The back pain was as troublesome as the indigestion and sometimes worse. In some cases the pain in the stomach radiated through to the back. By paying close or more attention to the stomach ulcer, giving it proper ulcer treatment relief was obtained for both the stomach and the back symptoms.

As stomach symptoms may be overlooked as a cause of backache, Dr. Beattie states that the importance of the symptom of backache in stomach and intestinal diseases and the mechanism by which these symptoms are caused should receive more attention for orthopedic, arthritis, and other specialists who spend their efforts in trying to locate the specific or special cause of the backache in which the underlying cause is indigestion in many cases.

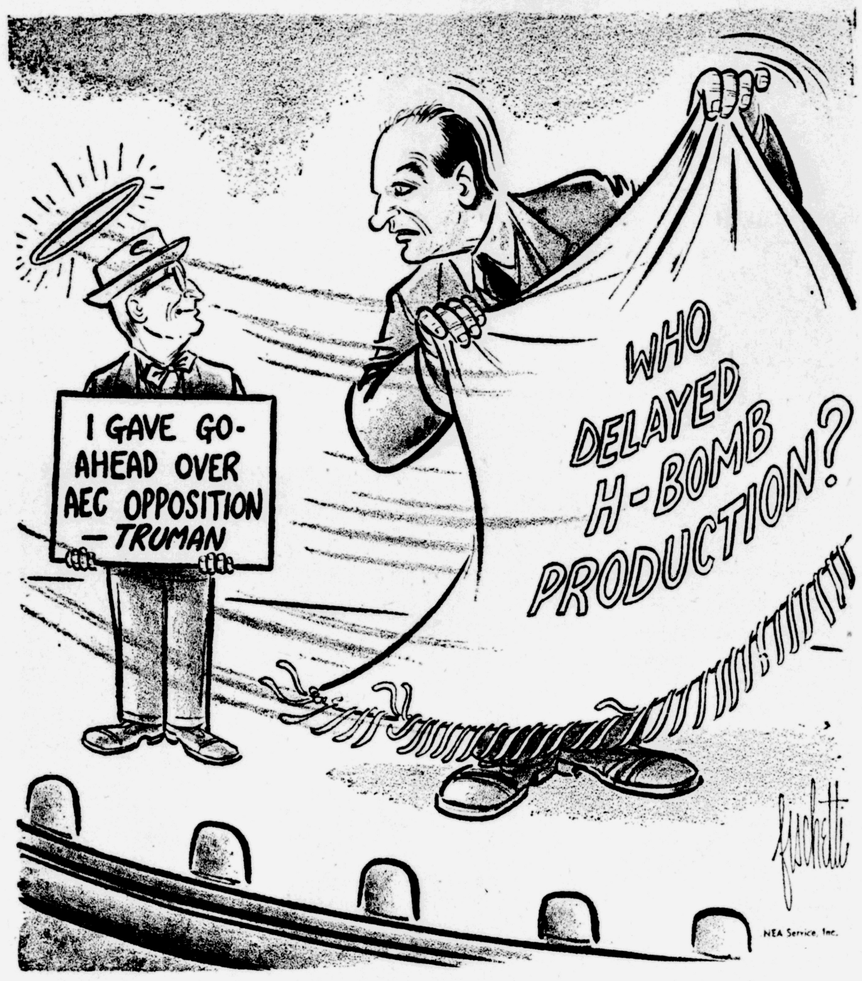

As we think over these cases of indigestion, we should try to keep in mind the well-known fact that, as stated by Chesterton, a sleepless night, an attack of indigestion, and a rainy morning can make a coward out of a man who might otherwise have been a hero. Certainly, an attack of indigestion can cause symptoms such as backache in many individuals. The point is that unfortunately few of us think of backache as being caused by dyspepsia.

But there is little chance his action will be reversed.

WHATEVER union officials may think and say about the Administration's labor policies, U. S. strikes in February were at a new eight-year low for the month. Department of Labor figures show 200 new strikes reported in February, 1954. They involved 50,000 workers.

All strikes in progress during the month, included those that started previously, numbered 350. They involved 100,000 workers.

Since all of the strikes were small, total man-days of idleness were estimated at 750,000, or less than one tenth of one per cent of all working time in all industries.

Main reason given for the low strike record is, of course, that there has been considerable unemployment. When jobs are scarce, people hang onto them tighter, and there is less opportunity for union bargaining agents to make new demands on employers.

"Let's suppose for a moment that we were to load on a single train of the wheat which the Commodity Credit Corp., today has under loan and in its inventories.

Members of the Senate investigating subcommittee were really embarrassed about not having fully checked up on the record of Boston attorney Samuel P. Seals before appointing him to handle the Army-McCarthy fight.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D., Ark.) admitted later that when the subcommittee members first agreed on the appointment, they didn't even have his name right. They had been calling him "Spears."

The word is out in aviation circles that Sen. W. Stuart Symington (D., Mo.) has been designated as the Number One critic of the Eisenhower administration's "New Look" in the armed forces.

Symington has already made one full-length speech in the Senate attacking the new defense policies.

Various aviation interests are quietly egging the senator on to make other speeches of the same sort at the rate of about one a week.

Symington had been both secretary of the Air Force and chairman of the National Security Council before he was elected to the Senate.

Oppenheimer Case Displays What U. S. Faces; Status Is Uncertain

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 14—The strange case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, leading atomic scientist, who has been formally suspended by President Eisenhower and the Atomic Energy Commission from access to classified material pending a study of his security status, illustrates better than millions of words of debate or television pictures what a difficult problem the government of the United States is up against nowadays.

On the one hand, the congressional committees are assailed as unfair and as engaged in "witch hunting," and the cry is heard that every man must be considered innocent until proved guilty. But, on the other hand, affiliation with the government is not a right or privilege and employes can be ruled as security risks merely because there is reasonable doubt as to their eligiblity to remain in the government. It is not a court procedure at all.

At this writing, nobody knows whether Dr. Oppenheimer is or is not a good security risk for continuance as a member of the Science Advisory Committee under the Office of Defense Mobilization. His file has been under review for some time, and his suspension took place in December 1953. In accordance with the rules of fair play, the Eisenhower administration didn't publicize this fact. It refused to be a party to the arousing of pubic suspicion, since it was not prejudging the case but was dealing with it confidentially and in an orderly manner.

Then how did it get into the headlines? It came from the Oppenheimer side. Selected newspaper reporters were given all the documents and the right to publish them Tuesday morning. The all-important fact that the initiative came from the Oppenheimer side—probably his attorneys—was not disclosed in the press in the articles on Tuesday morning. The Atomic Energy Commission, however, promptly issued a statement, declaring that it had sought to "protect the privacy of individuals appearing before its personnel security boards" and that "departure from this practice in this instance is only due to the fact that Dr. Oppenheimer has exercised his privilege of making public an account of the matter." cide on full publicity? It is often done as a device to forestall an attack, and pehaps in this case the hint given by Senator McCarthy in his television speech last week—without mentioning any names—that there was something mysterious about the delay in deciding to make the H-bomb indicated that maybe the Wisconsin senator himself was going to blow the lid off. Hence it may have seemed better to get all the documents out first, with the Oppenheimer version given sympathetic handling in the press.

Now it is disclosed by Senator Mundt of South Dakota and by members of the House that the whole matter was under scrutiny by the McCarthy Committee about last May but that the Wisconsin senator had decided several months ago not to go into the subject, since it would be handled by another committee or executive agency.

It could be that the speech by Senator McCarthy had no relationship to the Oppenheimer publicity effort to argue the case in advance, yet the effect was to link the two in public speculation. The situation is by no means clarified yet, and the strategists who advised Dr. Oppenheimer may find in the end they made a mistake in forcing the case into the open before all the facts had been gathered and the investigation had been completed.

So far as the public is concerned, it now will want to know not so much the details of the "derogatory information" in the file of Dr. Oppenheimer—as the phrase is used by the Atomic Energy Commission in its statement—but the reasons and motivations for some of the curious recommendations of policy made by the scientists. In the top councils of the government, for example, he opposed the strategic air command concept of the U. S. Air Force and delved in military strategy. He opposed the use of bombs as a "deterrent." He argued for more disclosures to the world of atomic data, and he was opposed to the development of the H-bomb. A restatement of Dr. Oppenheimer's views now become more important than ever.

The whole episode illustrates why it isn't so easy to dispose of security questions without a lot of background and why publicity isn't always the fault of the congressional committees.

Dr. Oppenheimer was a leader and his leadership meant that nearly all the scientists were opposed to American development of the H-bomb. The average citizen will wonder why he was so active in matters outside the field of science, but it is only fair that the Oppenheimer case not be prejudged till all the facts are revealed.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, April 13—I find it impossible to outline a criticism of the American press and to propose remedies or controls without violating the spirit of freedom of the press. However, the press certainly has faults which are dangerous to the people and these should be discussed for the benefit of the public. In a spirit of fellowship our papers and magazines refuse to speak ill of one another lest general recriminations should ensue, but this is not good for either the public or the press.

Roy Howard used to say, "It is an evil bird that fouls its own nest," but I say the press has fallen into bad habits and that no other force in our country is as well qualified to expose and discuss its intentional evils and unintentional errors.

We who are actually the press, the men and women who write for and produce the publications, know how human we are. We know very well that there are certain taboos and that the prejudice and personal animosity of one man, or that man's wife, may cause information to be held back from the public or published in distorted form.

A few days ago a dispatch from London said Winston Churchill was getting a robust ribbing from the press of London over the H-bomb deal. It was the worst blow to his power that had befallen since he ran the Marxists out of office. I examined this dispatch and discovered that this disapproval was expressed by the Times of London and some other London and provincial papers.

And what are these papers? They are words in ink on white newsprint. That is all they are. Whose words are these words? Well, they are the words of anonymous individuals who may have dishonest or selfish motives for saying this or that or suppressing information. The individuals may be high-minded and mistaken or sinister schemers taking a delight in the manipulation of public opinion.

At any rate, when the anonymous individual who is actually the spirit and voice of the Times of London, speaks his piece, he speaks with a power which is vast by comparison with that of another individual Englishman who may be just as wise and honest or much more so. The editor may have the power to overthrow a government which the people would rather retain in office.

I got back to 1910 in our press, but I will not pretend that my ideas during my formative years were very intelligent. The Socialists then howled that the press of our cities was controlled by the department stores. I didn't believe it, but I didn't have much sound information one way or another. However, I do know that nowadays editors have become handshakers and speech-makers.

They go to banquets of all sorts of business associations and politico-religious groups organized to exert "pressure." They accept and sometimes award medals, scrolls, plaques and the like which are just trash of no moral value whatever. One does it because he knows that if he doesn't do it his opposite number on the opposition paper will leap at the chance.

They think or pretend to think that they are taking the pulse of the leaders of the community at these things but in real fact they are listening to their masters express their desires. Don't tell me I am wrong. I know. So does every other newspaperman and so do most of the dominant business men and the politico-clerical element of banqueteers.

I was a little startled by my own audacity recently in giving consideration to a suggestion that the press be investigated by Congress. It would have been unthinkable to me 10 years ago. But now I had arrived at a realization that with our tremendous power to play on public opinion we had developed no great editors except great in the sense of bigness.

Henry Luce has become a giant in this respect, but he certainly is no moral giant. Go back over his career and observe the deliberate cultivation of a style of nasty abuse and the adoption of a jerked-English gibberish invented by Briton Hadden, his early partner in "Time," and you will see that the man never was the sort of person who should be trusted with such enormous power over the minds and thus the fate of the people. He takes digs at people for personal reasons, leaving the public with a distorted idea of their character and conduct. I can list many individuals in more or less public life who invariably get a dirty deal from Luce no matter what the facts and circumstances may be.

Would you say that a publisher who, for profit only, prints a columnist whom he knows to be a liar and blackmailer is any better, morally, than a druggist who sells cocaine to teen-agers for the same motive? Yet every publisher in the business knows that a columnist who answers this description is widely published by newspapers including some which have frankly admitted that he is a liar and blackmailer.

I find nothing to bear out any contention that the press had a finer moral character 50 years ago. I find that it was about the same in this respect. But I doubt this so few individuals exerted so much influence over the affairs of this nation. There are only a handful of publishers now and the power they wield seems to be much greater and more immediate than the power of the many competitive operators of say 1900.

Joe Kennedy recently said in effect that Republican publishers were making a bad political mistake this year in not creating "unity" for the party. I disagreed. I said that on the contrary, most of them were trying to convince themselves that a Socialist program is Republican and are "supporting" Eisenhower by suppressing criticism of his policies and ability. On top of that, however, I insisted that the press should practice journalism, not politics.

Bill Hearst wrote with perfect honesty in the summer of 1952 that it was the personal decision of his late father, "pop" as Bill affectionately called him, which decided the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democratic Convention in Chicago 20 years before. "Pop" did this by releasing the Garner delegation to Roosevelt. There were other details but that is the gist of it and that is exactly how it happened that we got Roosevelt for four terms and the awful disaster to western civilization and the rise of Soviet power and the military menace of the oriental millions.

To be sure, Mr. Hearst did his patriotic best to reverse his own mistake with Landon in 1936, but that is beside the point. Actually one man, aging and aloof on a mountain overlooking the Pacific made a decision by telephone which was responsible for all these consequences to the whole world.

This is the Power of the Press.

New Gasoline Seen Re-powering Engines by Second Tankful

Gives Up to 15% More Power

A power-restoring job on the engine of the family car can be accomplished now simply by a trip to the service station, engineers for a large petroleum corporation have reported.

The "re-powering" is achieved by switching to a new kind of gasoline—gasoline containing a new additive which researchers say neutralizes lead and carbon deposits, and gives up to 15% more engine power.

Tests Show Power Gain

This encouraging news for car owners came when Shell Oil Company engineers released performance figures on tests conducted using the additive, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP.

"We consider it the greatest gasoline development in 31 years," a Shell spokesman said. "TCP overcomes pre-ignition and spark plug misfiring caused by lead and carbon deposits. These have been two major power robbers up till now."

The spokesman pointed out that "all gasoline sold today contains deposit-forming compounds." He said these compounds built deposits in the combustion chambers of all auto engines. It was explained that the deposits often become "hot spots" when power is needed most—for quick acceleration, for instance. As a result, fuel is pre-ignited before the piston reaches proper firing position. Vital power is lost.

"Not only does pre-ignition create power working against you," the Shell spokesman said, "but the deposits—which TCP now neutralizes—form on your spark plugs, causing misfiring, unburned fuel and considerable waste."

TCP Well Received

The new additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline already has created wide enthusiasm among car owners attracted by Shell's promise of "up to 15% more power without touching a tool."

Drivers are warned, however, that these deposits constantly accumulate with modern fuels—and therefore must constantly be neutralized to keep the power gained. Shell says the only way to insure this is continued use of Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

Company sales officials said Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is being handled by all Shell dealers.

Think It Through

Neighbor, do you remember "Old Iron Pants?" He was General Hugh Johnson. During the first 100 days of the New Deal he headed up the N.R.A.—the National Recovery Act. The N.R.A. set up a lot of codes which the businessmen had to sign and abide by in order to do business. According to Mussolini, it was a close approach to Italian fascism.

Mr. Hutton

The symbol of the National Recovery Act was the "Blue Eagle." It flew in from a foreign shore.

The President and "Iron Pants" got on the air to announce its arrival. "Iron Pants" said: "May Almighty God have mercy on any one attemping to trifle with this bird."

The leftwing educators and the Henry Wallace liberals shouted: "Hallelujah! Glory be! Amen."

But some time later the United States Supreme Court did trifle with the bird. They decided the N.R.A. was unconstitutional. It was unanimous. So out went Blue Eagle and "Old Iron Pants." And was F.D.R. sore at the Court!

If the dead bird had not been thrown out by the court, the constitution sure would have been blue long before this.

Thus began in 1933 a conspiracy to "take over" and by evasion of constitutional law they almost succeeded.

It was a close call!

A spokesman for the AFL American Federation of Teachers today put question marks on proposed legislation for implementing the White House call for education conference at state and local levels on public school needs, and urged that "provisions to guard the public interest be added and spelled out."

Selma M. Borchardt, vice president and Washington legislation rfepresentative of the Classroom Teachers' Union, said the combination of bills in Congress linked to the White House proposal "opens the way" for a "wedding of business and education" to the exclusion of classroom teachers, labor, farmers, and other public-wise groups.

Set For January

The administration called for the conferences in January. Bills referred to by Miss Borchardt (S.-2723, S.2724 and S.2856) were then introduced by Sen. H. Alexander Smith R.-N.J.). They were to implement the conference, create a national advisory commission on education, and set up "cooperative research in education" using private and public resources. Companion bills are in the House.

Miss Borchardt said that the "entire set" of bills are an integral part of a program set up to develop "the mutuality of business and education" in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. last November, at an Industry-College Conference attended by 20 industrialists and some 35 education administrators.

May Be Passed

"These bills have had so little publicity," she said, "that they may be passed, as they are slated to be, without the average citizen knowing that they could change our fundamental concept of government responsibility in education. The ones for the conference are slated to go through the House without a word, but closer scruting is being given to them in the Senate.

"One of the dangers in this measure is that it permits the government to be subsidized in the investigation by private donors. It permits the commissioner of education to accept such funds, for use in accordance with the wishes of the donors.

The land deeded is located about 185 feet from the state highway on Malden Turnpike, runs along the turnpike 33 feet, thence 80 feet northeast, thence 75 southeast and 100 feet southwest to the point of beginning at the turnpike.

The culmination of the transfer was primarily due to extensive negotiation conducted by Graf, Jerry A. Smith, vice president of the fire company, Albert J. Cawein, recording secretary and Supervisor Williams. Jack O. Pakenan, local surveyor who is a resident of the fire district offered his talents to the company in surveying the site.

Saugerties, April 13—During a special meeting of the Saugerties Town Board Saturday the fire commissioners of the Malden-West Camp Fire District were sworn into office by Peter Williams, town supervisor.

Prior to the swearing in ceremonies the Town board appointed Bernard E. McCutcheon of Evesport as treasurer of the fire district. The commissioners are Charles J. Site for Firehouse Deeded to Company

Saugerties, April 13—At a simple ceremony held in the home of John J. Helfert of Malden-on-Hudson a parcel of land for the purpose of a firehouse site was deeded by Mr. Helfert to the Malden-West Camp Fire Company.

The transfer took place on Saturday afternoon with Peter Williams, town of Saugerties supervisor, as witness. The fire company president, Charles J. Graf, accepted the deed from Mr. and Mrs. Helfert and expressed his thanks for the company for this most generous offer.

Mr. Helfert's donation of land for the firehouse site makes it possible for the firemen to commence building as soon as final plans are completed. The land deeded is located about 185 feet from the state highway on Malden Turnpike, runs along the turnpike 55 feet, thence 80 feet northeast, thence 75 southeast and 100 feet southwest to the point of beginning at the turnpike.

The culmination of the transfer was primarily due to extensive negotiation conducted by Graf, Jerry A. Smith, vice president of the fire company, Albert J. Cawein, recording secretary and Supervisor Williams. Jack O. Pakenan, local surveyor who is a resident of the fire district offered his talents to the company in surveying the site.

That a certain young man is wise beyond his years was proved when he paused before answering a widow who had asked him to guess her age.

She—You must have some idea about it.

He—I have several ideas. (with a smile) The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you 10 years younger on account of your looks, or 10 years older on account of your brains.

The children's party was drawing to a close, and the cook triumphantly brought in the piece de resistance—a heaping platter of Jello. As she put it on the table, it quivered and shook. Most of the children exclaimed with delight, but one started to leave the table.

"None of that for me," he said firmly. "It's not dead yet."

The earliest known reference to George Washington as the Father of the Country or His Country, now his most popular epithet, occurred in Nord Americanische Kalender, a German almanac printed at Lancaster, Pennsylvania, in 1779. In the upper part of the full-page frontis-piece of this almanac is a figure of Fame with a trumpet in one hand and a medallic portrait labeled Washington in the other. From the trumpet emanates the words: Des Landes Vater—"the Father of the Country." In German, Landesvater signifies "ruler of a country," and this epithet would be natural to one familiar with German.

The most completely lost of all days is that on which one has not laughed.

Two Tasty Recipes For Easter Season

Hard boiled eggs and left-over Easter ham find exciting new uses and are really delicious in these two recipes, so appropriate for the Easter season. Potato chips add appetizing new interest to both of these tasty, easily-prepared recipes.

Eggs 'n' Chips

Baking temperature, 350 degrees F; baking time, approx. 30 minutes.

2 cans cream mushroom soup; 2 cups milk; 6 hard cooked eggs; ¼ cup canned pimiento, chopped; ½ green pepper; salt, pepper to taste; 2 cups potato chips, crumbled; 18 unbroken potato chips.

Line a casserole with unbroken chips. Slice the hard cooked eggs, combine the cream of mushroom soup and milk. Heat to the boiling point. Crumble two cups potato chips. Place a layer of sliced eggs on the unbroken chips. Add crumbled chips and chopped pimiento. Add some of the hot soup. Repeat until the eggs, soup and crumbled chips are used. Put the casserole, uncovered, in the preheated oven. Let the mixture cook until bubbling. Ten minutes before taking from the oven, top with whole potato chips. At serving time arrange thin rings of green pepper in a rosette over the top. Serve hot.

Super-Special Ham Loaf

¼ cup brown sugar; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 3 slices canned pineapple; salt and pepper; 2 cups ground cooked ham; 1½ cups ground fresh pork; 2 eggs; 1 cup milk; ½ cup finely crumbed crackers; ½ cup finely crumbed potato chips.

Mix brown sugar, mustard, and vinegar. Put in bottom of loaf pan. Cut slices of pineapple and arrange in pattern on bottom of pan. Combine ground ham, fresh pork, beaten eggs, milk, crumbed crackers and potato chips. Mix well. Pack in pan being careful not to disarrange the pineapple slice pattern. Bake loaf in 375 degree oven for about 1½ hours. unmold bringing the pineapple slices on top.

Dwellings

Mankind's dwelling places are variously known as asylums, bungalows, cabins, castles, cottages, apartments, flats, hotels, halls, inns, huts, igloos, hemitages, lodging houses, rooming houses, manor houses, lodges, palaces, mansions, wigwams, tepees, residences, penthouses, shanties, sheds, shacks, tents, motels, etc.

SAD FAREWELL—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schockey of Bayside, O., reluctantly remove ornaments from their Christmas tree after their son Frederick, serving his third tour of duty in Korea, told them he wouldn't be able to see it. Originally expected home for the holidays, Frederick re-enlisted.

Toad Beliefs

Not many years ago, people believed that toads produced warts, carried jewels in their heads, poisoned infants with their breath, caused rain if stepped upon and, if killed, affected the quality of cow's milk.

The Mature Parent

Feeling Behind Our Action Toward Child Is Important

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One afternoon, 11-year-old Gwen went shopping for a new spring coat with her mother. A shell-pink one, priced at $49.95, caught her fancy. When her mother reminded her that this exceeded the price they'd agreed to spend, Gwen became angry.

Sulkily, she shrugged through other, less expensive coats offered by the sales clerk. "I don't care what you buy. You don't pay any attention to what I want anyway," she said to her mother.

This was an unjust charge. Gwen had been told she could have any coat she wished that cost $29.95. Her mother had read so many books that warned of the evil of correcting children before other people, that she kept silent. But like you and me, she did not enjoy being misinterpreted to justify someone else's anger.

The result was that Gwen sensed her mother's resentment. Growing more sullen, she refused any coat at all.

When they reached home, after their wasted afternoon, Gwen's mother corrected her. As antagonism had been accumulating in her for an hour and a half, she reproved Gwen with exaggerated and unnecessary violence.

This is the kind of thing that happens when we blindly obey dogmatic rules for human relationships. It is what's bound to occur when we respect rules for action toward children that ignore the vital importance of the feeling behind action.

The one that forbids anything but private correction of children is typical of such rules.

If reason and kindness motivate our correction of Gwen, we can, of course, correct her in public or private without any evil result. No child whose dignity has been consistently respected will find reasonable and kind correction offensive to his dignity.

And it's my frank opinion that rules like this are responsible in some measure for the uncertainty with which we do behave toward children. For nobody can keep his mind on someone else's rules for all his actions and remain a spontaneous, self-confident person.

The promoters of the rules do not intend to deliberately mislead us. Usually, they are people whose work has associated them closely with children who suffered tragedy at the hands of parents incapable of reason and kindness.

So the promoters became anxious for all children, with the idea that none of us were capable of trustworthy motives for action.

Two Tasty Recipes For Easter Season

Hard boiled eggs and left-over Easter ham find exciting new uses and are really delicious in these two recipes, so appropriate for the Easter season. Potato chips add appetizing new interest to both of these tasty, easily-prepared recipes.

Eggs 'n' Chips

Baking temperature, 350 degrees F; baking time, approx. 30 minutes.

2 cans cream mushroom soup; 2 cups milk; 6 hard cooked eggs; ¼ cup canned pimiento, chopped; ½ green pepper; salt, pepper to taste; 2 cups potato chips, crumbled; 18 unbroken potato chips.

Line a casserole with unbroken chips. Slice the hard cooked eggs. combine the cream of mushroom soup and milk. Heat to the boiling point. Crumble two cups potato chips. Place a layer of sliced eggs on the unbroken chips. Add crumbled chips and chopped pimiento. Add some of the hot soup. Repeat until the eggs, soup and crumbled chips are used. Put the casserole, uncovered, in the preheated oven. Let the mixture cook until bubbling. Ten minutes before taking from the oven, top with whole potato chips. At serving time arrange thin rings of green pepper in a rosette over the top. Serve hot.

Super-Special Ham Loaf

¼ cup brown sugar; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; 2 tablespoons vinegar; 3 slices canned pineapple; salt and pepper; 2 cups ground cooked ham; 1½ cups ground fresh pork; 2 eggs; 1 cup milk; ½ cup finely crumbed crackers; ½ cup finely crumbed potato chips.

Mix brown sugar, mustard, and vinegar. Put in bottom of loaf pan. Cut slices of pineapple and arrange in pattern on bottom of pan. Combine ground ham, fresh pork, beaten eggs, milk, crumbed crackers and potato chips. Mix well. Pack in pan being careful not to disarrange the pineapple slice pattern. Bake loaf in 375 degree oven for about 1½ hours. unmold bringing the pineapple slices on top.

Dwellings

Mankind's dwelling places are variously known as asylums, bungalows, cabins, castles, cottages, apartments, flats, hotels, halls, inns, huts, igloos, hemitages, lodging houses, rooming houses, manor houses, lodges, palaces, mansions, wigwams, tepees, residences, penthouses, shanties, sheds, shacks, tents, motels, etc.

SAD FAREWELL—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schockey of Bayside, O., reluctantly remove ornaments from their Christmas tree after their son Frederick, serving his third tour of duty in Korea, told them he wouldn't be able to see it. Originally expected home for the holidays, Frederick re-enlisted.

Toad Beliefs

Not many years ago, people believed that toads produced warts, carried jewels in their heads, poisoned infants with their breath, caused rain if stepped upon and, if killed, affected the quality of cow's milk.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One afternoon, 11-year-old Gwen went shopping for a new spring coat with her mother. A shell-pink one, priced at $49.95, caught her fancy. When her mother reminded her that this exceeded the price they'd agreed to spend, Gwen became angry.

Sulkily, she shrugged through other, less expensive coats offered by the sales clerk. "I don't care what you buy. You don't pay any attention to what I want anyway," she said to her mother.

This was an unjust charge. Gwen had been told she could have any coat she wished that cost $29.95. Her mother had read so many books that warned of the evil of correcting children before other people, that she kept silent. But like you and me, she did not enjoy being misinterpreted to justify someone else's anger.

The result was that Gwen sensed her mother's resentment. Growing more sullen, she refused any coat at all.

When they reached home, after their wasted afternoon, Gwen's mother corrected her. As antagonism had been accumulating in her for an hour and a half, she reproved Gwen with exaggerated and unnecessary violence.

This is the kind of thing that happens when we blindly obey dogmatic rules for human relationships. It is what's bound to occur when we respect rules for action toward children that ignore the vital importance of the feeling behind action.

The one that forbids anything but private correction of children is typical of such rules.

If reason and kindness motivate our correction of Gwen, we can, of course, correct her in public or private without any evil result. No child whose dignity has been consistently respected will find reasonable and kind correction offensive to his dignity.

And it's my frank opinion that rules like this are responsible in some measure for the uncertainty with which we do behave toward children. For nobody can keep his mind on someone else's rules for all his actions and remain a spontaneous, self-confident person.

The promoters of the rules do not intend to deliberately mislead us. Usually, they are people whose work has associated them closely with children who suffered tragedy at the hands of parents incapable of reason and kindness.

So the promoters became anxious for all children, with the idea that none of us were capable of trustworthy motives for action.

In a letter to Bev. Anderson, Edward J. Rieger, the Auto Club's safety director, said that the local dealership is being commended for "outstanding community service" in providing a dual control training car for use by students enrolled in the driver education course of Kingston High School.

The dealer was similarly cited last year when the Auto Club presented a certificate of commendation, to which the new seal is affixed.

The certificate commends the dealer for making an "important civic contribution to traffic safety and the reduction of accidents on the highway."

Mental Patient Invades House, Threatens Editor

Red Hook, April 14 (AP)—A state mental patient invaded the home of a woman editor Monday declaring, "I am the mercy killer of New Jersey," and blaming newspapers for his imprisonment.

Mrs. Alice Norton, editor of the weekly Red Hook Advertiser, and her husband Donald, talked the patient into leaving quietly. He was picked up later and taken back to the Hudson River State Hospital.

The Nortons called the State Hospital and described the intruder, who was identified as Otto Gerbig, 57 of La Grangeville. He had been living with a private family as part of his rehabilitation, Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick of the hospital said.

Dr. Kilpatrick said there had been no indication of violence in Gerbig's four years at the hospital and he had been progressing so well he had been selected for gradual return to community life.

Mrs. Norton wrote Gov. Dewey today demanding an investigation of the state Mental Hygiene Department and the whole program of family care.

On Thursday night, the 1954 Confirmation Class, which was confirmed Palm Sunday, will receive communion in a body. The parents of the young people are especially invited to attend the service with them.

The Good Friday service, which will be held before the altar draped in black net for the occasion, will feature the reception of a class of adults by confirmation and letter of transfer. Those who have communed Holy Thursday may attend the devotional portion of the Good Friday service and leave the sanctuary during the singing of the communion hymn.

The special committee of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society will meet at the church Saturday at 7 p. m. to decorate the chancel for the Easter service.

Fair Weather Prevails Over Most of Nation

(By The Associated Press)

There were a few wet spots but generally fair and pleasant weather prevailed over most of the nation today.

Temperatures in most areas continued above seasonal levels. Readings early today ranged mostly from the 40s to the 70s. Coldest spots were in northern Maine and northern Minnesota where temperatures were around freezing. Light snow fell in northern Maine.

Light rain fell in the northern Rockies from Montana southward into Idaho, Wyoming and northern Utah. Showers were reported in the Carolinas and Georgia but falls were light. Thunderstorms hit sections of eastern Minnesota, parts of Wisconsin and in western Texas.

Yesterday's temperatures ranged from a high of 100 at Thermal, Calif., to 20 above at Washington, N. H.

Meek easily outdistanced Edward A. Haynes and left seven others in a nine-man field out back in the dust. Hays is a former national commander of the American Legion.

Robert B. Chipperfield, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, finally beat back the challenge of Attorney Lawrence Stickwell and took the Republican congressional nomination in a district he has represented 16 years.

Harold H. Velde, chairman of the Un-American Affairs Committee, had an easier time of it with Robert Allison, a state representative for 20 years.

Chairman Leo Allen of the Rules Committee pushed past three opponents with no trouble and chairman Chauncey Reed of the Judiciary Committee took a pair of contestants into camp.

All four chairmen were expected to win. And their victories probably will result in Republican claims that they offer an endorsement of the administration program and the way it is being handled in Congress.

Meek was the favorite in the GOP senatorial sweepstakes on the basis of strength outside Chicago and support of 33 of the 34 state senators.

Autin L. Wyman, former chairman of the Chicago Crime Commission, and Park Livingston, former president of the Illinois University board of trustees, looked like the next best bet. They ran third and fourth.

President Fowler, who presided at the meeting last night, stated that the program has been arranged in this way to permit those present to have ample time to ask any questions they care to on the general subject of tax equalization rates and assessments of property for tax purposes.

"The three men from Albany who will be present are the best authorities available on the subject of equalization ratios, how they influence tax rates, debt and borrowing limits, state aid and related subjects," Fowler said.

Public officials, assessors and others interested are invited to attend this meeting to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p. m. Wednesday, April 21.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 14 (AP)—Substantial progress was made today in the stock market with leadership firmly implanted in major divisions.

The market started ahead at the opening and continued its forward movement into the early afternoon.

Gains ran to between 1 and 2 points in several sections of the list with a few pushing out beyond that limit.

Volume expanded on the rise to over two million shares as against 2,020,000 yesterday.

The railroads were out in front together with the steels, oils, and chemicals.

The aircrafts, which have been exceptionally strong recently, were neglected. The textiles suffered from the spreading curtailment of production of synthetic fabrics.

French Accept

sions were extremely cordial, although Bidault stressed that the French are opposed to any measures being taken before the April 26 Geneva Conference on Asian Problems.

The foreign minister and the secretary of state first met privately, then were joined by their aides.

After the talks, Bidault was host to Dulles and his aides and French ministry officials at lunch.

Dulles later was to meet Premier Joseph Laniel and perhaps ex-emperor Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam.

In London, the conservative Daily Mail tagged the "SEATO" label—for southeast Asia treaty organization—on the NATO-like Pacific lineup against Red aggression which Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Eden agreed yesterday they would work for.

French observers preferred PATO—Pacific Treaty Organization—for the Dulles-Eden project.

Their 10 candidates for such a pact were the western Big Three, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand, and the three Associated States of Indochina—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

That proposed alliance was the result of Dulles' search for the "position of strength" he believes the western Big Three must have when they meet in Geneva April 26 with Russia and Red China to discuss peace in Korea and Indochina.

troubles in the Pacific," he said. "But it will have to be something more than just a paper agreement. "If the free world really means it, a Pacific pact could be made effective."

Mansfield said American aid to the French in Indochina "has carried us to the brink of full-scale involvment" in the war there.

For this reason, he said Dulles ought to press the French to guarantee full independence to Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos as one of the "minimum conditions" to a united free world front at Geneva talks opening April 26. Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee member, visited Indochina last year.

Barbers Protest Monticello Order Of Bearded Males

Monticello, April 14 (AP)—Beard-growing for the men of Monticello had been judged to be in the best interest of the community, despite protests by its barbers.

The Master Barbers Assn. of this village of 4,000 had claimed that a beard-growing stunt, sponsored by village officials, would be discriminatory and bad for business.

They asked Justice Morris L. Rosenbloom to set aside the mayor's proclamation ordering men to grow beards, starting April 19, to be ready for the village's sesquicentinnial next fall.

Rosenbloom scught yesterday to console the disgruntled barbers by suggesting they would find new business in trimming beards as they blossomed.

The barbers' unsuccessful attack on the proclamation included the appearance of their secretary with a three-day stubble.

Mental Patient Invades House, Threatens Editor

Red Hook, April 14 (AP)—A state mental patient invaded the home of a woman editor Monday declaring, "I am the mercy killer of New Jersey," and blaming newspapers for his imprisonment.

Mrs. Alice Norton, editor of the weekly Red Hook Advertiser, and her husband Donald, talked the patient into leaving quietly. He was picked up later and taken back to the Hudson River State Hospital.

The Nortons called the State Hospital and described the intruder, who was identified as Otto Gerbig, 57 of La Grangeville. He had been living with a private family as part of his rehabilitation, Dr. O. Arnold Kilpatrick of the hospital said.

Dr. Kilpatrick said there had been no indication of violence in Gerbig's four years at the hospital and he had been progressing so well he had been selected for gradual return to community life.

Mrs. Norton wrote Gov. Dewey today demanding an investigation of the state Mental Hygiene Department and the whole program of family care.

French Accept

sions were extremely cordial, although Bidault stressed that the French are opposed to any measures being taken before the April 26 Geneva Conference on Asian Problems.

The foreign minister and the secretary of state first met privately, then were joined by their aides.

After the talks, Bidault was host to Dulles and his aides and French ministry officials at lunch.

Dulles later was to meet Premier Joseph Laniel and perhaps ex-emperor Bao Dai, chief of state of Viet Nam.

In London, the conservative Daily Mail tagged the "SEATO" label—for southeast Asia treaty organization—on the NATO-like Pacific lineup against Red aggression which Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Eden agreed yesterday they would work for.

French observers preferred PATO—Pacific Treaty Organization—for the Dulles-Eden project.

Their 10 candidates for such a pact were the western Big Three, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand, and the three Associated States of Indochina—Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

That proposed alliance was the result of Dulles' search for the "position of strength" he believes the western Big Three must have when they meet in Geneva April 26 with Russia and Red China to discuss peace in Korea and Indochina.

troubles in the Pacific," he said. "But it will have to be something more than just a paper agreement. "If the free world really means it, a Pacific pact could be made effective."

Mansfield said American aid to the French in Indochina "has carried us to the brink of full-scale involvment" in the war there.

For this reason, he said Dulles ought to press the French to guarantee full independence to Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos as one of the "minimum conditions" to a united free world front at Geneva talks opening April 26. Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee member, visited Indochina last year.

Barbers Protest Monticello Order Of Bearded Males

Monticello, April 14 (AP)—Beard-growing for the men of Monticello had been judged to be in the best interest of the community, despite protests by its barbers.

The Master Barbers Assn. of this village of 4,000 had claimed that a beard-growing stunt, sponsored by village officials, would be discriminatory and bad for business.

They asked Justice Morris L. Rosenbloom to set aside the mayor's proclamation ordering men to grow beards, starting April 19, to be ready for the village's sesquicentinnial next fall.

Rosenbloom sought yesterday to console the disgruntled barbers by suggesting they would find new business in trimming beards as they blossomed.

The barbers' unsuccessful attack on the proclamation included the appearance of their secretary with a three-day stubble.

IcCarthy: "If we found any mmunists in the Air Corps or any other branch, we of course ld have to expose them. We e only found them in the Army far. . . ."

IcCarthy had not yet entered field of Red-hunting when he d his first shot at the Army. at was to come almost a year r. But even then he displayed same bruising drive in the ne type of controversy which made him the most talked- ut figure in American politics ay.

His first brush with the army ne over the army's handling the prosecution of German SS opers accused of slaughtering Americans in the infamous almedy Massacre" of World r 2.

'Whitewash' Charged

Before the hearing was over he d charged a Senate investigat- subcommittee with planning a hitewash" of the army and ac- sed the committee chairman, n. Raymond Baldwin, Connec- ut Republican of acting "crimi- lly wrong."

He demanded a Senate probe of all the army's war crimes als in Europe. He called for ate Department and army offi- ls to testify and said that un- s they promised "corrective ac- n" he would call for public arings "even if they do irrepar- le damage to our policies and rtain individuals."

McCarthy didn't explain what reparable damage might be done but his demands created a stir. Earlier, several senators had ned McCarthy in voicing con- rn over death sentences given SS men in the Malmedy case. Their concern arose from the ct that military-civilian commis- ons had reported questionable ethods had been used to obtain me evidence. The commissions, wever, discounted reports that e convicted men had been forced sign statements they later re- idiated in court.

Sentences Reviewed

The controversy became so in- nse that Gen. Luciius D. Clay, . S. military governor in Ger- any, reviewed the 12 death sen- nces. He came to the conclu- on that six of the 12 had been oved guilty even if the state- ents they disowned had not been ed against them.

A subcommittee headed by aldwin was set up by the armed rvices committee to look into he Malmedy cases, and Mc- arthy was given a seat on it ven though he was not a member f the committee.

Baldwin declared McCarthy ap- arently had accepted the word of itler's own men as to what hap- ned over "the sworn testimony f American officers and military ersonnel."

McCarthy called Baldwin's in- uiry "a sham, a farce and a very eliberate attempt to whitewash." Ie ripped into Baldwin for re- aining the committee chairman- hip when his law partner—Maj. Dwight Fanton, was involved as a rincipal in the conduct of the rials.

It was a verbal whiplashing he like of which the staid Senate adn't heard in years. A friend of Baldwin's said it was a factor in Baldwin's decision to resign from he Senate and accept a judge- ship in his home state of Connecticut.

Won in End

In the end, McCarthy won. The death sentences of the six Germans were changed to life imprisonment.

Two years later McCarthy made his attack on General Marshall.

The implication of the speech was that the American armies—through decisions by Marshall—had been sent against Germany in such a manner that eastern Europe was left to the Red armies, perhaps deliberately. McCarthy pictured Russian expansion after the war as a result of a deliberate "retreat from victory" by U. S. policy makers.

McCarthy said: "I realize full well how unpopular it is to lay hands on the laurels of a man who has been built into a great hero . . .

"Were he merely a professional soldier who had given his lifetime to the service of his country, I should hesitate to lay hands on his laurels. We cannot too much honor the men who have dedicated their lives to our military service.

Can Deal Lightly

"We can afford to deal lightly with their mistakes of judgment but not with their lapses of honor. Had Gen Marshall been content at the end of World War 2 to rest upon his laurels instead of assuming command of our military and political decisions and ranging himself with stubborn zeal at the side of the old Acheson-Hiss-Yalta crowd, we might never have found occasion to audit what he did in World War 2."

McCarthy said the most significant decision in World War 2 was this: "The decision by Marshall, which was made against Roosevelt's half-hearted wishes and Churchill's bulldog determination, to concentrate on France and leave the whole of eastern Europe to the Red armies."

The generally accepted concept of western allies strategy in World War 2 was that the channel invasion was made because it was the most direct route to the heart of Germany—and the least costly in lives.

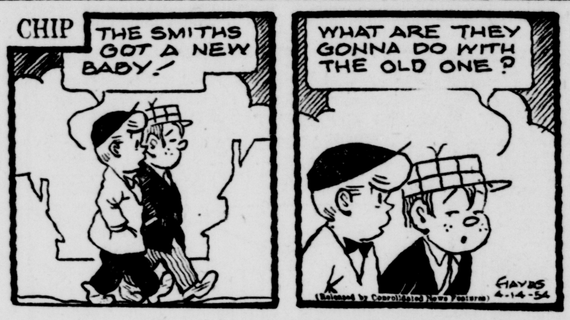

Sees Ominous Conspiracy

However, McCarthy saw an ominous conspiracy behind this strategy. The senator said Marshall "triumphed' 'over Churchill in the decision to attack across the channel rather than via the Medseal off eastern Europe from the Red armies.

Speaking of the first Quebec conference in 1943, McCarthy said: "That conference marked the end of Churchill's sway over the great decisions of war—A sway always modified by Marshall. Thereafter the policy of the United States in the European war was wholly and without deviation the policy announced by Joseph Stalin * * * The United States thereafter was found always on the side of Stalin.".

The Marshall speech created stormy reaction across the country—the sort of tumult which seems sooner or later to become identified with whatever the Wisconsin senator says or does.

It was with this background of assault against the army—and army men—that McCarthy entered the present knockdown fight with the army.

Steel Forms Speed Work

San Francisco (AP)—Use of steel forms instead of conventional wood forms for concrete operations is a factor in putting construction of Chief Joseph Dam on the Columbia river far ahead of schedule. Power production is scheduled for 1958. An example is a single steel form weighing 17 tons being used to mold the 25-foot openings of the penstocks through which the water will spill 165 feet down into the turbines. The 27 openings will be formed by the single steel frame.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE SECOND TREE FROM THE CORNER

By E. B. White

Here is a collection of stories, poems, sketches, essays and comments, which are among the best written during the past 20 years by this distiguished master of wit and wisdom, in capsule form. It is really a book to own, since these little literary gems must be read and re-read to get their full flavor. Moreover, taken as a whole, they give an amusing, and very sharp interpretation of our modern civilization, with its achievements and its absurdities. It makes you think.

The names of the various essays are most intriguing. For instance "A week with the Angels" is a description of the author's two-day stay in a Boston Hospital for a nose operation. His idea of being helpful to the overworked nurses was to wait until one had laid out all the materials for his bed bath, then, soon as her back was turned, to dump out the basin of bath water and go take a good tub bath in the bathroom. "Farewell my Lovely"—some adventures with and in his loved and lost Model "T" Ford. "The morning of the day they did it"—A look into the future, portraying life on a space ship (and you can have it); an episode in a barroom of the future; and the tyranny of numbers—telephone, car, Social Security and many, many others. "Two Letters-Both Open" One to the S.P.C.A. explaining that he is not harboring an unlicensed dog in his New York apartment because "Minnie" was licensed in the State of Maine; and one to the Collector of Internal Revenue, telling them what a dilemma it will put them-and him-in if they carry out their threat of selling his property for delinquent income taxes. Both very funny and chatty and quite beside the point. "The Second Tree from the Corner"—About a man's bewilderment during a session with his psychiatrist and his subsequent thoughts about the sanity of both the doctor and himself in the lovely evening light under the second tree from the corner in the Park.

Censorship

His Notes on our Times are pungent comments on such widely varying subjects as Rainmakers (with a word of warning to Mayor O'Dwyer); The Dream of the American Male (Dorothy Lamour, or a reasonable facsimile, of course); Who's Who in America; Censorship, Railroads (with their strong streak of insanity); Withholding Tax; Painted Finger Nails; Crab Grass; Air Raid Drill; and, in a gentle mood, Christmas, Old and New Style.

The book review in verse of Malabar Farm by Louis Bromfield is a marvel of complete description of this very interesting book, without a single unnecessary word. It will bring forth from book reviewers, a chorus of, I wish I'd said that."

It would be difficult to choose the best among these very clever selections, but certainly Death of the New York Sun; Don Marquis, reviving memories of the immortal Archy and Mehitabel and their Boss; The Hotel of the Total Stranger and Notes on the City with its reminiscences of scenes and doings in the New York of our youth will make many squirm with nostalgia for those dear, dead days.

The episode Twins is a delicate picture of the author, coming upon a doe in the Bronx zoo just after she had given birth to twin fauns. Obstetrical details are given with professional skill. The book ends quite properly with The Death of the Pig at the Maine farm.

Among well remembered and highly recommended works by this author are two delightful childrens' books, Stuart Little and Charlotte's Web. And Here is New York—distilled essence of the city he loves.

HE MUST SEE HER HOME

A young man asks me this question: "Is it permissible to put my girl friend into a taxi after our date and send her home alone? She lives in the opposite part of town from where I do and to see her home would mean that I couldn't get home until so late it would cut my sleep to the point of handicapping my efficiency at the office the next day. The taxi would take her straight to her door and certainly would be safe. I would very much appreciate your opinion in this matter."

In the day time, it would be quite all right for you to do this, but at night you certainly must see her home—unless the town is sufficiently small for the taxi driver to be someone you know.

Housewarming vs. Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: Don't you feel that a housewarming is a first cousin to a shower party and therefore should not be given by the new tenants themselves? I've never been to a housewarming yet that the guests did not take presents.

Answer: The tenants themselves usually give such a party because it is not always convenient to be "surprised" with a party in their own house. Furthermore, a housewarming is the showing of a new house and does not obligate anyone to take a present. A shower, on the other hand, is the showering of a guest of honor with presents and all who accept the invitation to such a party must take a present.

How Much Searching?

Dear Mrs. Post: When a serving dish is passed and the portion held toward you is too big, or too well done, is it proper to search through the portions until just the right piece is found?

Answer: If you don't have to disarrange the whole dish and can serve yourself quickly, you may take whichever piece you prefer. But you can't go prodding about with spoon and fork and muss up the dish doing it.

A housewarming or "open house" can be a tea, a cocktail party, a buffet supper or the simplest afternoon or evening at home. Mrs. Post gives suggestions in leaflet E-28. She is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Steel Forms Speed Work

San Francisco (AP)—Use of steel forms instead of conventional wood forms for concrete operations is a factor in putting construction of Chief Joseph Dam on the Columbia river far ahead of schedule. Power production is scheduled for 1958. An example is a single steel form weighing 17 tons being used to mold the 25-foot openings of the penstocks through which the water will spill 165 feet down into the turbines. The 27 openings will be formed by the single steel frame.

An Old Story

Wheeling, W. Va. (AP)—A Pittsburgh driver talked his way out of paying a $1 traffic fine by convincing Police Clerk William Thomas that a parking meter was broken and wouldn't take his nickle. Thomas glanced at the license number on the ticket as the man began to walk away, then remembered something. He leafed through his files to find 16 old tickets bearing the same number. The red-faced visitor paid $16 in back fines.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Laugh? I Thought I'd Die!

Not long ago, I unhinged the stop-clasp on my wallet and ordered a good tape-recording machine. Next day, a young fellow named Eddie showed up at my office to install it.

"I understand these dinguses go out of wack now and then," I said.

"Not this model," said Eddie. "In the nine months it's been on the market, I've installed over a hundred of them, and only once did a customer ask us to take his machine back."

"What went wrong with it?"

"The trouble was," said Eddie, "it worked too darned well. . ."

As Eddie told it, last October he delivered a recording unit to a necktie merchant named Dave Brown who lived in Great Neck, Long Island. When he rang the bell, Brown himself opened the door and stuck out his hand, and when Eddie shook it he jumped a yard—the cravat king had one of those trick buzzers concealed in his hand.

"It gets 'em every time," said Brown. "But if you ever want a real laugh, I'll let you in on a better gag. Next time you're at a party, get hold of two people who don't know each other, take each one aside and tip him off that the other is hard of hearing. Then introduce them and listen to them holler their heads off at each other. Man, it's one of the funniest sights in the world."

From this, Eddie concluded that Mr. Brown was a practical joker, and when he asked to have the tape recorder installed in the library and the microphone concealed in the portieres over an alcove in the adjoining playroom, Eddie guessed he was going to spring a joke on someone. As he learned from the butler when he came around to take the machine back, his guess was right.

That Saturday night, it seems, Mr. Brown used the hard-of-hearing gag on a couple of people who were at his house for the first time, passed out several exploding cigars, and told a string of stories which aren't usually told in mixed company.

Around midnight he made an announcement. "Folks," he said, "now for the grand finale. There's been a microphone hidden in the alcove all evening, and every word said there has been recorded on tape. For your edification and amusement, I'm going to play the tape back."

"Fun's fun," said a real estate man named Jake Hess, "but this is carrying it a little too far. You're invading people's privacy, and you might make somebody look pretty silly."

Most of the guests backed up the real estate man, and their prankster host finally gave in. "Okay," he said. "Seeing as how it makes you jittery, we'll forget the whole thing."

He went to the library, came back with a spool of tape and pitched it in the fireplace.

An hour later most of the guests had left, leaving the Browns with a few old friends.

"Now that the sourpusses are gone," said the practical joker, "Let's hear what's on the tape." He explained that the reel he had burned had been a blank.

The necktie man's wife spoke up. "Are you sure you want to?" she asked.

"This is strictly for laughs," said her spouse. He snapped on the switch and the playback began.

At first it didn't amount to much—typical Martini talk. Then a woman's voice said, "Our host is sure a clown, isn't he?" A man's voice answered, "That he is. Let's give big parties for the next twenty years and don't invite him."

A quarter-minute later another pair of voices was heard. This time it was Jake Hess, the real estate man, and Mrs. Brown, the practical joker's wife.

Jake: "How much longer are you going to put up with that sophomore?"

Mrs. Brown: "Only a few more months, darling. Dave went in for a checkup last week, and his doctor told me off the record he's got a bad heart. Said he doesn't figure to last out the year. Isn't that wonderful news, sweetheart?"

The necktie man stared at his wife. Then at the real estate man. There was, as the saying goes, dead silence in the room.

His wife's voice came on again. "Dave," it said, "while I was setting out the flowers this afternoon, I spotted the microphone in the portieres. Tonight Jake Hess is going to ask you to destroy the tape, and if you do you'll never hear what was on it. But if you trick your guests — and it's my hunch you will—then I'm sure you'll get a big laugh out of the lie we just made up about your bad heart. We're doing this to prove your point—that nothing peps up a party like a good practical joke. Ha! Ha! Ha! you baboon!"

Train Connection Bad

Mount Clemens, Mich. (AP) — Milton Davidson missed the 8 a. m. commuter train—but he's glad he did. Davidson's car stalled on a crossing. He froze behind the steering wheel as the 8 a. m. sheared off the car's front up to the windshield. He decided against reporting for work. The remaining two-thirds of his car was towed away.

Half-Size Jeep Built by Gilbert

This half-size jeep was built by Asbury W. Gilbert, proprietor of Gill's Garage, Route 28, just across the Washington avenue viaduct. At wheel is Cheryl Walker and her sister, Debra, sits in rear. They are daughters of John Walker Jr., nearby truck farmer. Gilbert says the jeep took two months to build of old parts and scrap. The car is powered by a Briggs & Stratton three and one-half horsepower, aircooled engine. (Freeman photo)

An Old Story

Wheeling, W. Va. (AP)—A Pittsburgh driver talked his way out of paying a $1 traffic fine by convincing Police Clerk William Thomas that a parking meter was broken and wouldn't take his nickle. Thomas glanced at the license number on the ticket as the man began to walk away, then remembered something. He leafed through his files to find 16 old tickets bearing the same number. The red-faced visitor paid $16 in back fines.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

Laugh? I Thought I'd Die!

Not long ago, I unhinged the stop-clasp on my wallet and ordered a good tape-recording machine. Next day, a young fellow named Eddie showed up at my office to install it.

"I understand these dinguses go out of wack now and then," I said.

"Not this model," said Eddie. "In the nine months it's been on the market, I've installed over a hundred of them, and only once did a customer ask us to take his machine back."

"What went wrong with it?"

"The trouble was," said Eddie, "it worked too darned well. . ."

As Eddie told it, last October he delivered a recording unit to a necktie merchant named Dave Brown who lived in Great Neck, Long Island. When he rang the bell, Brown himself opened the door and stuck out his hand, and when Eddie shook it he jumped a yard—the cravat king had one of those trick buzzers concealed in his hand.

"It gets 'em every time," said Brown. "But if you ever want a real laugh, I'll let you in on a better gag. Next time you're at a party, get hold of two people who don't know each other, take each one aside and tip him off that the other is hard of hearing. Then introduce them and listen to them holler their heads off at each other. Man, it's one of the funniest sights in the world."

From this, Eddie concluded that Mr. Brown was a practical joker, and when he asked to have the tape recorder installed in the library and the microphone concealed in the portieres over an alcove in the adjoining playroom, Eddie guessed he was going to spring a joke on someone. As he learned from the butler when he came around to take the machine back, his guess was right.

That Saturday night, it seems, Mr. Brown used the hard-of-hearing gag on a couple of people who were at his house for the first time, passed out several exploding cigars, and told a string of stories which aren't usually told in mixed company.

Around midnight he made an announcement. "Folks," he said, "now for the grand finale. There's been a microphone hidden in the alcove all evening, and every word said there has been recorded on tape. For your edification and amusement, I'm going to play the tape back."

"Fun's fun," said a real estate man named Jake Hess, "but this is carrying it a little too far. You're invading people's privacy, and you might make somebody look pretty silly."

Most of the guests backed up the real estate man, and their prankster host finally gave in. "Okay," he said. "Seeing as how it makes you jittery, we'll forget the whole thing."

He went to the library, came back with a spool of tape and pitched it in the fireplace.

An hour later most of the guests had left, leaving the Browns with a few old friends.

"Now that the sourpusses are gone," said the practical joker, "Let's hear what's on the tape." He explained that the reel he had burned had been a blank.

The necktie man's wife spoke up. "Are you sure you want to?" she asked.

"This is strictly for laughs," said her spouse. He snapped on the switch and the playback began.

At first it didn't amount to much—typical Martini talk. Then a woman's voice said, "Our host is sure a clown, isn't he?" A man's voice answered, "That he is. Let's give big parties for the next twenty years and don't invite him."

A quarter-minute later another pair of voices was heard. This time it was Jake Hess, the real estate man, and Mrs. Brown, the practical joker's wife.

Jake: "How much longer are you going to put up with that sophomore?"

Mrs. Brown: "Only a few more months, darling. Dave went in for a checkup last week, and his doctor told me off the record he's got a bad heart. Said he doesn't figure to last out the year. Isn't that wonderful news, sweetheart?"

The necktie man stared at his wife. Then at the real estate man. There was, as the saying goes, dead silence in the room.

His wife's voice came on again. "Dave," it said, "while I was setting out the flowers this afternoon, I spotted the microphone in the portieres. Tonight Jake Hess is going to ask you to destroy the tape, and if you do you'll never hear what was on it. But if you trick your guests — and it's my hunch you will—then I'm sure you'll get a big laugh out of the lie we just made up about your bad heart. We're doing this to prove your point—that nothing peps up a party like a good practical joke. Ha! Ha! Ha! you baboon!"

Half-Size Jeep Built by Gilbert

Train Connection Bad

Mount Clemens, Mich. (AP) — Milton Davidson missed the 8 a. m. commuter train—but he's glad he did. Davidson's car stalled on a crossing. He froze behind the steering wheel as the 8 a. m. sheared off the car's front up to the windshield. He decided against reporting for work. The remaining two-thirds of his car was towed away.

Women's Clubs Urged To Enter Community Awards at State Fair

State Fairgrounds, Syracuse, April 14—Inquiries arriving from every part of New York state indicate that a large number of women's clubs are hard at work preparing entries for the Community Service Awards sponsored by the Women's Division of the New York State Fair.

The contest, now in its third year, recognizes outstanding achievements of women's groups throughout the state in the area of civic betterment.

This year's June 1 deadline is stressed by Mrs. Martha Eddy, chairman of the Women's Committee of the Fair, who says:

"The State Fair may seem a long way off right now, but it is by no means too early for women's groups to start preparations for this year's awards. The contest is open to any women's organization in the State which has rendered a significant unpaid service to its community."

A first prize of $100 and a second prize of $50 goes to each of the winners.

"Both very large and very small groups are urged to enter," Mrs. Eddy continued. "Each organization will be competing against groups of comparable size, with division categories ranging from groups of 50 or fewer members to groups of more than 301 members.

"We believe this competition not only offers state-wide recognition to outstanding women's groups but serves as a medium through which their experience and success may inspire other communities."

All entries must be postmarked on or before June 1. Complete rules and a contest entry form are contained in the Community Service Awards announcement, available on request to the Women's Division, New York State Fair.

Women's Clubs Urged To Enter Community Awards at State Fair

State Fairgrounds, Syracuse, April 14—Inquiries arriving from every part of New York state indicate that a large number of women's clubs are hard at work preparing entries for the Community Service Awards sponsored by the Women's Division of the New York State Fair.

The contest, now in its third year, recognizes outstanding achievements of women's groups throughout the state in the area of civic betterment.

This year's June 1 deadline is stressed by Mrs. Martha Eddy, chairman of the Women's Committee of the Fair, who says:

"The State Fair may seem a long way off right now, but it is by no means too early for women's groups to start preparations for this year's awards. The contest is open to any women's organization in the State which has rendered a significant unpaid service to its community."

A first prize of $100 and a second prize of $50 goes to each of the winners.

"Both very large and very small groups are urged to enter," Mrs. Eddy continued. "Each organization will be competing against groups of comparable size, with division categories ranging from groups of 50 or fewer members to groups of more than 301 members.

"We believe this competition not only offers state-wide recognition to outstanding women's groups but serves as a medium through which their experience and success may inspire other communities."

All entries must be postmarked on or before June 1. Complete rules and a contest entry form are contained in the Community Service Awards announcement, available on request to the Women's Division, New York State Fair.

Some Germs Are Dangerous Despite Their Extinction

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

Atlantic City, N. J., April 14 (AP)—Some germs are dangerous dead or alive, and healthy glands seem to be a good defense against their double punch new experiments reported today indicate.

There are germs which are dangerous while alive. But they also contain a hidden poison. This poison is released when the body kills and breaks up the germs.

How you react in both battles may well depend partly upon having healthy adrenal glands, glands which are neither too lazy nor too active, the new studies suggest. This could explain different reactions to infections because of age or health conditions.

The new studies made in mice were described to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology by Drs. R. D. G. Higginbotham and Thomas F. Dougherty, of the University of Utah School of Medicine, Salt Lake City.

Glands Produce Cortisone

The adrenal glands, located atop the kidneys, produce a potent hormone, cortisone. Resistance to some infections is reduced by giving certain adrenal extracts. But the injection can increase resistance to various kinds of poisons.

The Utah scientists took out the adrenal glands of mice. These mice became 1,000 times more susceptible to an injection of a poison-producing strain of staphylococcus germs, the type which cause boils and other ailments.

The mice reacted badly even when injected with dead germs. The germs, dead or alive, are broken up by the spleen, and their poison is released. The mice with no adrenal glands "actually commit suicide by destroying the bacteria and thereby liberating this material."

Mice with no adrenal glands did survive when given enough of the hormone. Too much was bad in fighting germs. Too little was bad in combating the poison of the destroyed germs.

Woman Who Beat Husband to Death Released by Judge

New York, April 14 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Strumilas, 58, arrested for beating her husband to death, was released by Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz who decleared, "all the jails in the world couldn't inflict the punishment this poor soul has already endured."

Mrs. Strumilas, a grandmother, was arrested last Dec. 26 and indicted for mansalughter. The charge was later reduced to second degree assault to which she pleaded guilty and faced a sentence of 2½ to 5 years.

In releasing the woman yesterday, the county judge said the record shows "this woman lived a life of hell. She bore five children. Her husband often came home drunk and beat her."

Put Off Visit

Mrs. Strumilas was accused of fatally striking her husband when he started beating her after she asked him to take her to visit a married son on Christmas Day.

Judge Leibowitz suspended sentence and placed the woman on probation "only so that the Probation Department can assist her and help her in any way to bring some sunshine into her dark life."

He cautioned, however, that his decision did not mean he condoned violence. "Each case is decided on its merits," he declared.

Providence Report Says Writers Paid

Providence, R. I., April 14 (AP)—The Journal-Bulletin today printed a story saying 10 Boston newspapermen were paid sums by the Rockingham Park Race track last year ranging from $100 to $2,500.

The newspaper quotes Lou Smith, vice president and general manager of the Salem, N. H. track as saying the men were paid for services ranging from "not doing a damn thing" to assisting in the publicity department.

The paper quotes him further as saying the practice was, "more or less necessary" to run an efficient publicity bureau and that it was an "accepted practice" to assist newspaper men.

The Journal-Bulletin says the track books show the following payments:

Sam Cohen, sports editor, Boston Record, $2,500.

George Clarke, columnist, Boston Record, $600.

Mel Massucco, reporter, Boston Record, $600.

Robert A. Waldo, track writer, Boston American, $100.

William McCauley, track writer, Boston Record, $600.

Matthew Keany, sports writer, Boston American, $500.

Sidney Robinson, track writer, Boston Post, $300.

Sam McCracken, track writer, Boston Globe, $500.

William R. King, sports writer, Associated Press, $500.

Gardner L. Forst, bureau manager, United Press, $500.

Is Not Employe

The Boston Post issued a statement saying Robinson is not an employe of that newspaper but "is a private contractor who sells a race service" to the Post and other papers.

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, said King was dismissed after the news service investigated reports "that a member of its Boston staff had received substantial payments from a New England race track in 1952 and 1953 which were not disclosed to his employer."

Bert Masterson, New York-New England division manager of the United Press, issued a statement saying Forst "resigned voluntarily from the United Press on Monday, April 12. He had been with the UP 17 years."

No executive of the Record-American, which, the Journal-Bulletin said, had six writers listed, was available for comment.

Three Children Burned

Corning, April 14 (AP)—Three little sisters were burned to death yesterday when a fire caused by gasoline ignited in the kitchen raced through a frame two-family house. Their two brothers and mother—who was expecting another child — were hospitalized with burns and cuts. The dead were Carol Hankinson, 7, and her sisters, Geraldine, 4, and Betty, 2. Mrs. Thomas Hankinson and her sons, Thomas, 11, and William, 9, were reported in fair condition at Corning Hospital. Fire Chief James A. Doolittle said the elder Hankinson had taken five gallons of gasoline from a truck he owned and placed it in glass jars on the kitchen floor. It was not explained why he did this.

Rain Prevents President's Golf

Augusta, Ga., April 14 (AP)—A misty rain threatened to keep President Eisenhower off the golf course at the start of his Easter holiday today.

The President had planned an early tee-off to tune up his game for a match later in the week with the sensational North Carolina amateur who came close to winning the Masters tournament.

But Eisenhower's good weather luck deserted him and he had to stay indoors and wait for clearing skies.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, arrived here by plane from Washington last night for about a 10-day stay at "Mamie's Cabin," named for the first lady, on the edge of the Augusta National Golf Club.

Eisenhower found most of the talk at the club still centering on 31-year-old Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., whose play in the Masters tournament won him probably more attention than the winner.

Patton finished the regular 72-hole tournament at the Augusta National with a 290, just a stroke more than Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, two of the game's greatest, tallied. Snead then went on to defeat Hogan in the 18-hole play-off Monday.

Bobby Jones, president of the Augusta National, said Patton probably will team up with Eisenhower Friday.

ILGWU Accuses 14 of Fund Fraud

New York, April 14 (AP)—The AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union has accused two of its own accountants and 12 dress manufacturers of defrauding union welfare funds.

The union yesterday turned over names of the accountants and firms to the district attorney's office for prosecution after discovering that the firms were allowed to cut their payments to the welfare funds.

The accountants, in turn, received a share of the money saved by the companies, the union said. No figures were given, however.

Under the contract covering 80,000 dressmakers, manufacturers must contribute 6½ per cent of their weekly payroll toward health, welfare, vacation and pension benefits for the workers.

Building Is Destroyed

Albany, April 14 (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the Delmar Box Co. in nearby New Scotland and roared across property of the adjacent Long Lumber and Supply Co. Richard Long, president of the lumber firm, said two lumber warehouses, a loaded tractor-trailer and several stacks of cut lumber were lost. More than 100 firemen from seven communities battled the flames. There was no estimate of damage.

Exchanges to Be Closed

New York, April 14 (AP)—Financial and commodity exchanges throughout the United States will be closed Good Friday, April 16. Most banking institutions will remain open as usual, and various livestock market reports will be gathered by the Dept. of Agriculture.

The adrenal glands, located atop the kidneys, produce a potent hormone, cortisone. Resistance to some infections is reduced by giving certain adrenal extracts. But the injection can increase resistance to various kinds of poisons.

The Utah scientists took out the adrenal glands of mice. These mice became 1,000 times more susceptible to an injection of a poison-producing strain of staphylococcus germs, the type which cause boils and other ailments.

The mice reacted badly even when injected with dead germs. The germs, dead or alive, are broken up by the spleen, and their poison is released. The mice with no adrenal glands "actually commit suicide by destroying the bacteria and thereby liberating this material."

Mice with no adrenal glands did survive when given enough of the hormone. Too much was bad in fighting germs. Too little was bad in combating the poison of the destroyed germs.

Rain Prevents President's Golf

The President had planned an early tee-off to tune up his game for a match later in the week with the sensational North Carolina amateur who came close to winning the Masters tournament.

But Eisenhower's good weather luck deserted him and he had to stay indoors and wait for clearing skies.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, arrived here by plane from Washington last night for about a 10-day stay at "Mamie's Cabin," named for the first lady, on the edge of the Augusta National Golf Club.

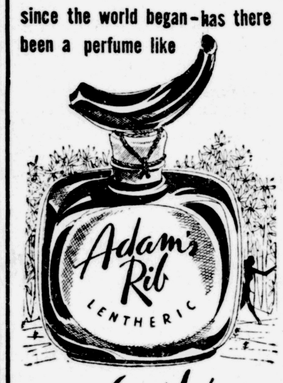

Eisenhower found most of the talk at the club still centering on 31-year-old Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., whose play in the Masters tournament won him probably more attention than the winner.

Patton finished the regular 72-hole tournament at the Augusta National with a 290, just a stroke more than Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, two of the game's greatest, tallied. Snead then went on to defeat Hogan in the 18-hole playoff Monday.

Bobby Jones, president of the Augusta National, said Patton probably will team up with Eisenhower Friday.

ILGWU Accuses 14 of Fund Fraud

New York, April 14 (AP)—The AFL International Ladies Garment Workers Union has accused two of its own accountants and 12 dress manufacturers of defrauding union welfare funds.

The union yesterday turned over names of the accountants and firms to the district attorney's office for prosecution after discovering that the firms were allowed to cut their payments to the welfare funds.

The accountants, in turn, received a share of the money saved by the companies, the union said. No figures were given, however.

Under the contract covering 80,000 dressmakers, manufacturers must contribute 6½ per cent of their weekly payroll toward health, welfare, vacation and pension benefits for the workers.

Woman Who Beat Husband to Death Released by Judge

New York, April 14 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Strumilas, 58, arrested for beating her husband to death, was released by Brooklyn Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz who declared, "all the jails in the world couldn't inflict the punishment this poor soul has already endured."

Mrs. Strumilas, a grandmother, was arrested last Dec. 26 and indicted for mansalughter. The charge was later reduced to second degree assault to which she pleaded guilty and faced a sentence of 2½ to 5 years.

In releasing the woman yesterday, the county judge said the record shows "this woman lived a life of hell. She bore five children. Her husband often came home drunk and beat her."

Put Off Visit

Mrs. Strumilas was accused of fatally striking her husband when he started beating her after she asked him to take her to visit a married son on Christmas Day.

Judge Leibowitz suspended sentence and placed the woman on probation "only so that the Probation Department can assist her and help her in any way to bring some sunshine into her dark life."

He cautioned, however, that his decision did not mean he condoned violence. "Each case is decided on its merits," he declared.

Providence Report Says Writers Paid

Providence, R. I., April 14 (AP)—The Journal-Bulletin today printed a story saying 10 Boston newspapermen were paid sums by the Rockingham Park Race track last year ranging from $100 to $2,500.

The newspaper quotes Lou Smith, vice president and general manager of the Salem, N. H. track as saying the men were paid for services ranging from "not doing a damn thing" to assisting in the publicity department.

The paper quotes him further as saying the practice was, "more or less necessary" to run an efficient publicity bureau and that it was an "accepted practice" to assist newspaper men.

The Journal-Bulletin says the track books show the following payments:

Sam Cohen, sports editor, Boston Record, $2,500.

George Clarke, columnist, Boston Record, $600.

Robert A. Waldo, track writer, Boston American, $100.

William McCauley, track writer, Boston Record, $600.

Matthew Keany, sports writer, Boston American, $500.

Sidney Robinson, track writer, Boston Post, $300.

Sam McCracken, track writer, Boston Globe, $500.

William R. King, sports writer, Associated Press, $500.

Gardner L. Forst, bureau manager, United Press, $500.

Is Not Employe

The Boston Post issued a statement saying Robinson is not an employe of that newspaper but "is a private contractor who sells a race service" to the Post and other papers.

Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, said King was dismissed after the news service investigated reports "that a member of its Boston staff had received substantial payments from a New England race track in 1952 and 1953 which were not disclosed to his employer."

Bert Masterson, New York-New England division manager of the United Press, issued a statement saying Forst "resigned voluntarily from the United Press on Monday, April 12. He had been with the UP 17 years."

No executive of the Record-American, which, the Journal-Bulletin said, had six writers listed, was available for comment.

Three Children Burned

Corning, April 14 (AP)—Three little sisters were burned to death yesterday when a fire caused by gasoline ignited in the kitchen raced through a frame two-family house. Their two brothers and mother—who was expecting another child — were hospitalized with burns and cuts. The dead were Carol Hankinson, 7, and her sisters, Geraldine, 4, and Betty, 2. Mrs. Thomas Hankinson and her sons, Thomas, 11, and William, 9, were reported in fair condition at Corning Hospital. Fire Chief James A. Doolittle said the elder Hankinson had taken five gallons of gasoline from a truck he owned and placed it in glass jars on the kitchen floor. It was not explained why he did this.

Albany Ave. Group Changes Its Name

Because of the wider scope of activities which the business men of the Albany avenue area anticipate, the name of the Albany Avenue Business Men's Association has been changed. At a meeting of the association members held Tuesday evening at the Ulster Hose No. 5, engine house it was voted to change the name to the Ulster-Albany Avenue Business Men's Association and plans are now under way to incorporate the association.

At the meeting Tuesday evening about 35 members attended and it was reported that to date the membership numbers 53. A permanent membership committee has been named to contact business men of the area. Many business people of the area have not as yet joined, although they have expressed a desire to become affiliated with the new organization. Inability to attend the meetings and take out a membership, has prevented many from becoming members to date. The committee will call on these prospective members and solicit their membership.

The object of the association is to promote and develope this rapidly growing area of the city and the town of Ulster just north of Kingston.

thority of the Atomic Energy Commission," Cole and Hickenlooper said. "The joint committee has found no fault with the procedures taken by the Atomic Energy Commission in this case . . .

"We do not believe it necessary for further congressional action at this time."

Former President Truman was asked about Oppenheimer last night following a speech at the University of Missouri. Declining to comment in detail, he said:

"I inherited Dr. Oppenheimer. He was considered a great scientist—one of the greatest—in connection with the atomic bomb. Don't convict anybody by implication or gossip."

Pike's Statement

In Augusta, Me., former AEC member Sumner T. Pike said the charges which brought Oppenheimer's suspension seemed to be the same as those he said had been weighed by at least three government groups previously.

"Personally, I never had the slightest question of Dr. Oppenheimer's devotion to the United States," Pike said in an interview. "I may be what they are calling 'politically naive' or 'soft toward Communists,' but I don't think so."

Two Out on Bail

istrate Hyman Korn granted a search warrant for the apartment and publishing office.

The detectives gave this account:

As they entered the apartment, Roth bolted through a door and raced down a flight of steps to the street with Hurley in pursuit. Cornered in front of his apartment house, Roth cut loose with profanity and swinging fists and shouted: "If you think you're going to take me inside, you'll have to fight me." Hurley subdued Roth.

The detectives said Roth — a tall, thin man with balding head, moustached and wearing horn-rim glasses — looked nothing like a brawler.

Mrs. Roth—a small and attractive brunette—was taken into custody in the apartment by Haughie.

The Roths' attorney, Nicholas Atlas, was present at the Elizabeth street police station as the couple was booked, each on one count of possession of obscene literature and one of conspiracy with others for such possession.

The Roths were arraigned in night court before Magistrate Matthew F. Fagan and hearings were set for next Tuesday in lower Manhattan court. In an argument over the amount of bail, Asst. Dist. Atty. Maurice Nadjari said Roth had "a long series of convictions." Bail of $8,000 was set for Roth and $7,500 for his wife.

A spokesman for Hogan's office said the six persons picked up at Roth's office and questioned were later released. They were given subpoenas to reappear for more questioning when wanted.

Price for March Milk Is $3.89

New York, April 14 (AP)—A uniform price of $3.89 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) will be paid to the New York milkshed's 49,994 producers for milk deliveries during March.

The March producer butterfat differential is six cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

The figures were announced last night by C. J. Blanford, market administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area.

The uniform price for February was $4.16. For March 16, 1953, it was $4.02.

Blanford's report last night included these factors also:

Total production in March was 718,458,838 pounds, an increase of 5.4 per cent over March, 1953, and a record for the month under the joint federal-state marketing orders.

Average production per dairy per day in March was 464 pounds, a monthly record and 18 pounds above March 1953.

Fluid milk consumption in the marketing area — consisting of New York city and Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester counties—totaled 267,437,538 pounds, a decline of 706,838 pounds under March, 1953. Sales of New York pool milk to outside markets totaled 29,184,928 pounds, a drop of 9.8 per cent under March, 1953.

The farm value of the March pool, including butterfat and location premiums, was $28,328,391. In March, 1953, the figure was $27,884,000, which was 1.6 per cent lower than this year.

The uniform price of $3.89 will be paid for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat.

Bank Committee

pegged well above the cost of their projects.

Complaints of abuses under the home improvement program, it has been disclosed, were made under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

Suspect apartment project financing occurred under the post World War 2 "middle income" housing program, which expired in 1950.

The alleged irregularities and administrative laxities came to light Monday night when the White House abruptly announced that FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday had resigned the post to which President Eisenhower had named him a year ago.

Mason Is Named

Yesterday, Eisenhower named Norman P. Mason, a Massachusetts lumber dealer, to serve as acting FHA commissioner while the executive branch—the parent Housing and Home Finance Agency and the FBI—pushes its probe.

Capehart seemed somewhat miffed when he was told that Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.) had announced his joint congressional Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures would hold a hearing on the situation next Tuesday.

"I don't know what authority Sen. Byrd has over this," Capehart said. "There can be no question that this is our concern."

The Banking Committee has jurisdiction over housing matters. Both Byrd and Capehart said they had alerted government housing chiefs to apparent skullduggery long ago.

Price for March Milk Is $3.89

New York, April 14 (AP)—A uniform price of $3.89 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) will be paid to the New York milkshed's 49,994 producers for milk deliveries during March.

The March producer butterfat differential is six cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

The figures were announced last night by C. J. Blanford, market administrator of the New York metropolitan milk marketing area.

The uniform price for February was $4.16. For March 16, 1953, it was $4.02.

Blanford's report last night included these factors also:

Total production in March was 718,458,838 pounds, an increase of 5.4 per cent over March, 1953, and a record for the month under the joint federal-state marketing orders.

Average production per dairy per day in March was 464 pounds, a monthly record and 18 pounds above March 1953.

Fluid milk consumption in the marketing area — consisting of New York city and Nassau, Suffolk and Westchester counties—totaled 267,437,538 pounds, a decline of 706,838 pounds under March, 1953. Sales of New York pool milk to outside markets totaled 29,184,928 pounds, a drop of 9.8 per cent under March, 1953.

The farm value of the March pool, including butterfat and location premiums, was $28,328,391. In March, 1953, the figure was $27,884,000, which was 1.6 per cent lower than this year.

The uniform price of $3.89 will be paid for milk testing 3.5 per cent butterfat.

Bank Committee

pegged well above the cost of their projects.

Complaints of abuses under the home improvement program, it has been disclosed, were made under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations.

Suspect apartment project financing occurred under the post World War 2 "middle income" housing program, which expired in 1950.

The alleged irregularities and administrative laxities came to light Monday night when the White House abruptly announced that FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Hollyday had resigned the post to which President Eisenhower had named him a year ago.

Mason Is Named

Yesterday, Eisenhower named Norman P. Mason, a Massachusetts lumber dealer, to serve as acting FHA commissioner while the executive branch—the parent Housing and Home Finance Agency and the FBI—pushes its probe.

Capehart seemed somewhat miffed when he was told that Sen. Byrd (D.-Va.) had announced his joint congressional Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures would hold a hearing on the situation next Tuesday.

"I don't know what authority Sen. Byrd has over this," Capehart said. "There can be no question that this is our concern."

The Banking Committee has jurisdiction over housing matters. Both Byrd and Capehart said they had alerted government housing chiefs to apparent skullduggery long ago.

Winston-Salem, N. C. (AP)—A defendant appealed a civil case to the Supreme Court asking that the judgment be declared "null and void." But somewhere along the line something happened. A transcription trial asked the Supreme Court to declare the judgment "bull and void."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As I sat down to write this column the mail was handed me, including a new book which I had been eagerly awaiting — "The Techniques of Creative Thinking," by Professor Robert P. Crawford, of the University of Nebraska. I shall review this important book for you just as soon as I have had an opportunity to digest it. However, from correspondence the Ruminator has enjoyed with Professor Crawford, I know the book is chock full of mental food displayed in a most appetizing manner.

Certainly, as you look about you and see the countless successes that have sprouted from "ideas" you realize how creative thinking can make you rich, if you are willing to pay the price and use your creative faculties. But more about the book later. In the meantime, if you can't wait, send $3.95 to Hawthorne Books, Inc., Publishers—70 Fifth avenue, New York 11, and they'll send you a copy.

Contrary thinking is a form of creative thinking, because when you investigate the opposite viewpoints to common subjects you frequently acquire a new slant. And a new slant often creates new ideas.

Contrary thinking also helps you to see through the trees that hide the forest.

Consider today's complex problems for a moment. Minds are so preoccupied with McCarthyism and business statistics—the near view—that the longer, bigger view is in danger of being covered up. Every now and then you have to lift your eyes from graphs, statistics, and trend indicators, if if you wish to measure the ideological conflict (the forest).

And keep this in mind: It is the idelogical conflict that is establishing the trends—both in economics and politics.

The Years of the Pause (to use an expression of Theodore H. White's from his informative book, "Fire in the Ashes")—the years of interminable and abortive conferences may now be ending. As he sees Secretary Dulles flying again hurriedly to London and Paris to find out if we are to be jockeyed into going alone again in southeast Asia (Indo-China)—and we guess at what may transpire at Geneva later in the month—we have brought home to us once again the unpredictable "shape of things to come." It is unfortunately safe to predict, however, that the shape is not likely to be to our liking.

From purely an economic standpoint, don't you agree that it comes down to this:

(a) If America withdraws from international entanglements it means a general deflation and economic crisis;

(b) Whereas, if America plunges deeper into the world conflict, it can only mean persistent inflation and economic expansion?

In other words, is not this global forest of greater significance, by far, than the trees of moderate unemployment, a temporary slump in steel production, or a possible top-heavy condition of inventories (which won't be top-heavy, of course, if inflation starts up again)?

The H-bomb is not going to end this global conflict of ideologies. Granted that its devastating powers may prevent a world war of the leading nations, what difference will it have on "area wars?" Why should it have any effect? The Red rulers know that we would not drop the bomb on some mountainside in southeast Asia—indeed, they know we doubtless will refuse to drop it at all unless it is dropped on us first.

Does it not follow then — note the contrary approach — does it not follow then, that Russia, Red China, and their satellites can become increasingly stronger under the protection of the H-bomb? That is, if they believe as we do that the H-bomb makes a world war less likely, what is there to prevent their putting forth even greater efforts in (1) strengthening their industrial economies and (2) in grabbing additional land areas and small nations?

The foregoing are some of the contrary international thoughts which, it seems to me, we have got to mull over as America pushes farther and farther into a position of western world leadership. Moreover, the question arises will the western nations follow our leadership, or shall we be left holding the bag?

Many of us wish that some other trends were in evidence, but we must accept what is. The internationalists, so-called, are in the saddle and for the time being it looks as if we were securely tied into foreign affairs.

Muscatine, Iowa (AP) — Police patrolman Robert Getz went out on a call to pick up a "wounded dog" but found that the "dog" was a fox and turned the scalp in to the county auditor collecting the $2 bounty.

Why We Say--

This widely quoted statement was used as the title of a book by Anita Loos. However, it probably started with the 1885 version of the New King Arthur where a brunette character named Vivian bleached her hair blond to attract Sir Galahad. She believed that all men preferred blondes.

Cadillac

Starting the Day with an Hour's Rest!

It's about an hour from his home to his office—but he doesn't think of it as a drive at all.

He just settles back in the deep, comfortable seat—rests his hand on the inviting wheel—looks out over the hood in the general direction of the office—and starts to relax.

Comes first, the ten-mile stretch in the country.

If the car were standing still, it could not be smoother or softer or quieter—as it loafs over the broad, winding highway. There's only the faint sound of the wind, plus the receding trees and posts and buildings, to give him a sense of movement.

Almost before it begins, it seems, the ten-mile stretch is over—and a sign announces the city's limits. The soft pressure of his foot shifts from accelerator to brake—and the big car settles down easily, smoothly and quickly to the prescribed speed.

And then begins the real wizardry of Cadillac performance. Stop and go—in and out—roll and creep . . . all regulated with the slightest touch of toe and hand. Insofar as the driver is concerned, it's just as easy as the open road—a little slower, of course, but just as calm and relaxing.

And maybe a little bit nicer, in one notable respect—for now there are drivers all about him—stealing glances at his beautiful car, and wondering who's the fortunate person whose name is on the title!

What a car—for highway or street! Owners say the hours behind its wheel are among the finest hours of the day—restful, relaxing and inspiring.

If you haven't as yet driven a 1954 Cadillac—you've been missing something wonderful! Better come in soon—for the most revealing hour you ever spent behind the wheel of a motor car.

To The Hills, Men . . . . . Who'll Stop Those Giants Now!

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a long, long way to the end of the major league baseball season but for opening day at least, the champs looked like chumps.

The proud champion New York Yankees bit the dust in Washington 5-3....the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers tasted defeat at the hands of the Giants 4-3....

The highly rated Milwaukee Braves were dumped in Cincinnati 9-8....the well regarded Boston Red Sox were knocked off by the lowly Philadelphia Athletics 6-4....the high flying St. Louis Cardinals were thrashed by the Chicago Cubs 13-4....the hustling Chicago White Sox were stalled by Cleveland 8-2....and the fighting Philadelphia Phillies were upset by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2.

Mathews Hits Two

Otherwise everything went according to script....well, nearly everything. Eddie Mathews, whose 47 home runs made him king of the majors in 1953, whacked two out of the park for the Braves. Roy Campanella, the majors runs-batted-in champion last year, cracked two homers for the Dodgers. Mickey Vernon, AL batting champion, homered for Washington to beat the Yankees in a 10-inning tussle. Sal Maglie, who has made a living out of whipping the Dodgers, beat 'em again. And the old St. Louis Browns, who are now the new Baltimore Orioles, lost again—absorbing a 3-0 shutout in Detroit.

Weatherwise, it was an ideal day to inaugurate the season. Crowds totalling 236,414 turned out in generally cool, sunny weather to watch the 16 teams get under way.

In keeping with the atomic times, home runs—clusters of them—provided the boisterous keynote to the full scale opening. The noisiest and most dramatic four-baggers were slammed by the Giants' Willie Mays and the Senators' Vernon.

Mays Wins Game

Mays, the wonder boy, lived up to his buildup, smashing a tremendous 425-foot shot into the upper seats in left center in the sixth inning to snap a 3-3 deadlock and give the Giants their triumph over their bitter Brooklyn rivals. This blow, together with Marv Grissom's superb relief pitching, gave Maglie his 19th victory in 25 decisions against the Dodgers.

The 36-year-old Grissom relieved Maglie with the bases loaded and only one out in the seventh. He retired the dangerous Duke Snider on an infield pop-up and made Jackie Robinson slap into an easy force play. The screw-balling righthander permitted only one hit the rest of the way to the delight of a majority of the crowd of 32,397.

The victory was achieved against Carl Erskine, the league's leading pitcher in 1953 who had blanked the Giants in his last two starts against them. The Dodgers had won the last 10 games from New York in '53.

Reynolds Victim

Vernon's game-winning homer came with one out and a runner on base in the last of the 10th to break a 3-3 tie. Allie Reynolds, fifth Yankee pitcher and the 18th player used by Manager Casey Stengel, was the victim of the blow.

President Eisenhower, who threw out the first ball stayed right at the end along with the crowd of 27,160. Sonny Dixon, who relieved started Chuck Stobbs and stopped the Yankees cold after they had tied the score in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

Greengrass on Spree

Jim Greengrass cracked four doubles to tie a major league record to highlight Cincinnati's first opening day victory since 1949.

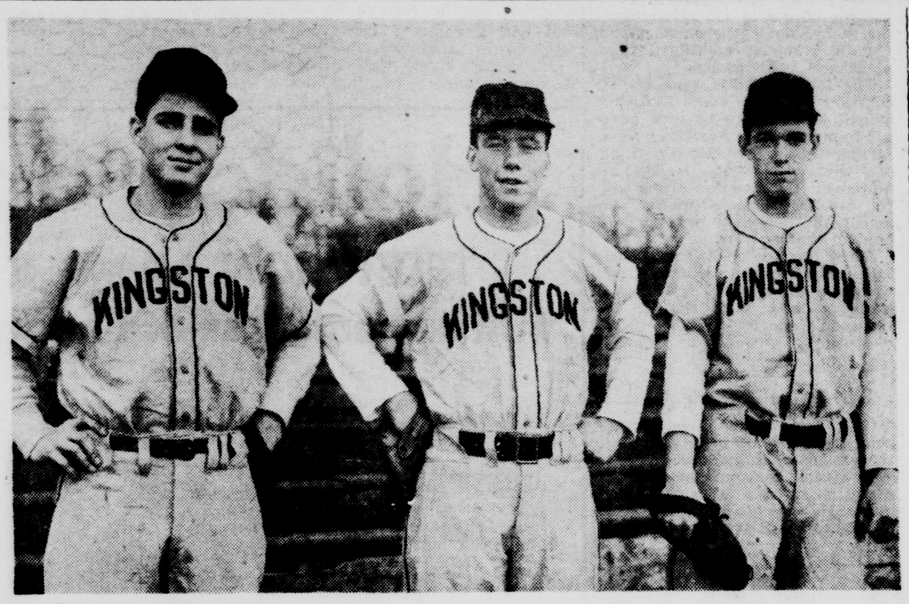

Philadelphia's triumph over the Red Sox was dimmed by a recurrence of the arm injury to Bobby Shantz that had sidelined the little Athletics' southpaw most of the 1953 season. Shantz was ahead 5-2 when he stopped the game in the top of the sixth and complained of an aching arm. He was taken out and sent to a hospital for examination.

Held runless by Robin Roberts through seven innings, the Pirates pounced on the Philly ace and Jim Konstanty, his reliever, for four runs in the eighth to pull the game out of the fire. Rookie Bob Skinner's pitch hit single tied the score then Hal Rice doubled to drive in the winning run.

Successive fourth inning home runs by Wally Westlake and George Strickland opened the gates for the Indians who staged a 15-hit assault on Billy Pierce and three relievers to gain their one-sided victory over the White Sox.

Stan Hack's managerial debut was a success as his Cubs shelled starter Harvey Haddix and four other St. Louis hurlers for 16 hits.

At Detroit the day's largest crowd—46,994—watched Baltimore make an ignominious return to the American League after 52 years. Detroit's Steve Gromek shut the Orioles out with seven hits and fanned nine.

Majors Double Home Run Output

New York, April 14 (AP)—More than twice as many home runs were hit in this season's opening major leagues games than were hit in the first tilts of the 1953 campaign.

A total of 21 home runs were hit yesterday—12 in the National League and nine in the American. Last year, major league players accounted for only 10 circuit blows—six in the National and four in the American.

Canadiens Tie Hockey Playoff

Montreal, April 14 (AP)—The Montreal Canadiens—old hands at coming from behind—were back in the National Hockey League championship picture after winning the sixth game of the best-of-seven final series with the Detroit Red Wings.

The Canadiens, who have won the last two Stanley Cups, squared the series at 3-3 last night by trouncing the Red Wings 4-1. The final game for the cup will be played at Detroit Friday night.

Although there was a lot of shouting in the Montreal dressing room, Coach Dick Irvin said, "he didn't think his Canadiens played as well as they did in shutting out the Red Wings 1-0 on Sunday."

- Hitters Hot

New York, April 14 (AP)—Are the major league pitchers ahead of the hitters or vice versa? Of course, it's too early to tell, but in yesterday's opening games, the batters drove out 149 hits in 556 times at bat for a collective .268 average.

Eight Players Hit Sacrifices

New York, April 14 (AP)—Eight players already have taken advantage of the major league's restored sacrifice fly rule.

Under the regulation, a player hitting a fair outfield fly which scores a run is credited with a sacrifice and is not charged with a time at bat.

Detroit Draws 46,994 for Best First Day Crowd

New York, April 14 (AP)—Opening day in the Major Leagues Tuesday was a financial success with 236,414 turning out for the eight games.

The American League outdrew the National 121,511 to 114,903. The largest crowd was the 46,994 which came out to see the Baltimore Orioles make their American League debut in Detroit.

To The Hills, Men . . . . . Who'll Stop Those Giants Now!

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's a long, long way to the end of the major league baseball season but for opening day at least, the champs looked like chumps.

The proud champion New York Yankees bit the dust in Washington 5-3....the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers tasted defeat at the hands of the Giants 4-3....

The highly rated Milwaukee Braves were dumped in Cincinnati 9-8....the well regarded Boston Red Sox were knocked off by the lowly Philadelphia Athletics 6-4....the high flying St. Louis Cardinals were thrashed by the Chicago Cubs 13-4....the hustling Chicago White Sox were stalled by Cleveland 8-2....and the fighting Philadelphia Phillies were upset by the upstart Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2.

Mathews Hits Two

Otherwise everything went according to script....well, nearly everything. Eddie Mathews, whose 47 home runs made him king of the majors in 1953, whacked two out of the park for the Braves. Roy Campanella, the majors runs-batted-in champion last year, cracked two homers for the Dodgers. Mickey Vernon, AL batting champion, homered for Washington to beat the Yankees in a 10-inning tussle. Sal Maglie, who has made a living out of whipping the Dodgers, beat 'em again. And the old St. Louis Browns, who are now the new Baltimore Orioles, lost again—absorbing a 3-0 shutout in Detroit.

Weatherwise, it was an ideal day to inaugurate the season. Crowds totalling 236,414 turned out in generally cool, sunny weather to watch the 16 teams get under way.

In keeping with the atomic times, home runs—clusters of them—provided the boisterous keynote to the full scale opening. The noisiest and most dramatic four-baggers were slammed by the Giants' Willie Mays and the Senators' Vernon.

Mays Wins Game

Mays, the wonder boy, lived up to his buildup, smashing a tremendous 425-foot shot into the upper seats in left center in the sixth inning to snap a 3-3 deadlock and give the Giants their triumph over their bitter Brooklyn rivals. This blow, together with Marv Grissom's superb relief pitching, gave Maglie his 19th victory in 25 decisions against the Dodgers.

The 36-year-old Grissom relieved Maglie with the bases loaded and only one out in the seventh. He retired the dangerous Duke Snider on an infield pop-up and made Jackie Robinson slap into an easy force play. The screw-balling righthander permitted only one hit the rest of the way to the delight of a majority of the crowd of 32,397.

The victory was achieved against Carl Erskine, the league's leading pitcher in 1953 who had blanked the Giants in his last two starts against them. The Dodgers had won the last 10 games from New York in '53.

Reynolds Victim

Vernon's game-winning homer came with one out and a runner on base in the last of the 10th to break a 3-3 tie. Allie Reynolds, fifth Yankee pitcher and the 18th player used by Manager Casey Stengel, was the victim of the blow.

President Eisenhower, who threw out the first ball stayed right at the end along with the crowd of 27,160. Sonny Dixon, who relieved started Chuck Stobbs and stopped the Yankees cold after they had tied the score in the ninth, was credited with the victory.

Greengrass on Spree

Jim Greengrass cracked four doubles to tie a major league record to highlight Cincinnati's first opening day victory since 1949.

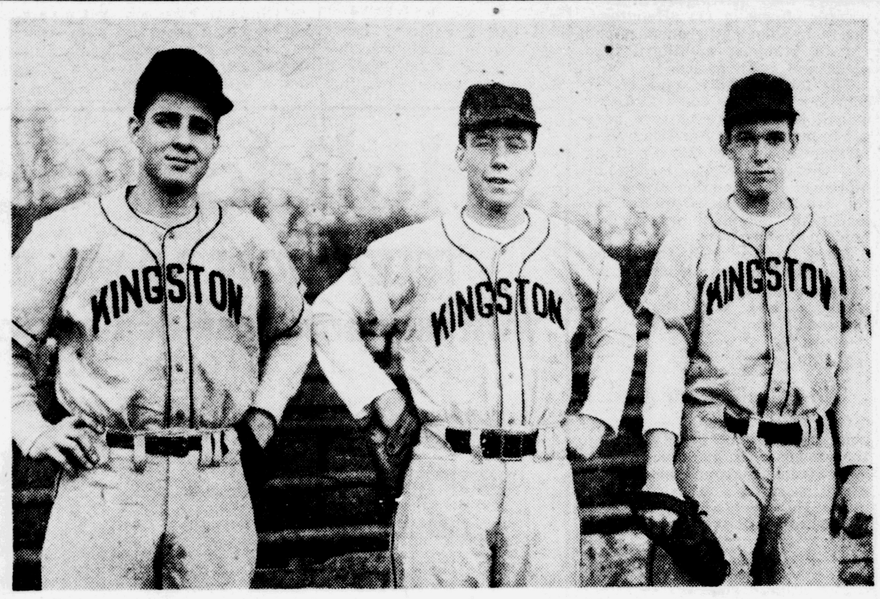

Philadelphia's triumph over the Red Sox was dimmed by a recurrence of the arm injury to Bobby Shantz that had sidelined the little Athletics' southpaw most of the 1953 season. Shantz was ahead 5-2 when he stopped the game in the top of the sixth and complained of an aching arm. He was taken out and sent to a hospital for examination.

Entry Blanks To 98 Schools For NP Relays

Entry blanks for the 1954 Hudson Valley Relays have been sent to 98 high schools within a 50-mile radius of New Paltz for the track and field meet scheduled at the high school there on Saturday, May 8.

More than 500 schoolboy athletes are expected to compete.

The competition will be divided into two classes: Class I for schools with 150 or more boys, among them Kingston, Middletown, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Arlington, Ellenville, Liberty, Nyack, Suffern and Wappingers.

Class II includes such schools as Cardinal Farley Military, Congers, Cornwall-on-Hudson, Coxsackie, Athens, Fleischmanns, Goshen, Haldane, Hendrick Hudson, Highland Falls, Irvington, Marlborough, New Paltz, St. Agnes, St. Patrick's, Tappen Zee, Walden and Wallkill.

2-Mile Relay Feature

One of the features of the meet will be the two-mile relay. Relays also are scheduled at 440 yards, 880 yards and the mile in each class. There will also be a medley relay and relay for the freshmen.

Field events are scheduled in the shot put, discus, javelin, pole vault, broad jump and high jump; also a 180-yard low hurdle race.

The "Invitational 100" will bring together eight of the fastest high school sprinters in the Hudson valley.

A total of 268 prizes will be awarded, including plaques, trophies, medals, ribbons and bronze spiked shoes.

State Fishing Guide Is Now Available

The 1954 New York state fishing guide is available now and copies can be secured at all town, city, village and county clerks offices and from special license issuing agents. Commissioner Perry B. Duryea said the Guide is available at a much earlier date than in past years.

The Guide, which incorporates all changes of the Conservation Law affecting fresh water fishing, continues the easy-to-follow regional and county-by-county pattern inaugurated last year.

Commissioner Duryea added that this simplified pattern, which has proved so popular with sportsmen of the state, would again be followed in preparing this year's Hunting and Trapping Guide for publication prior to the hunting season.

Joe Wilman is the first to have bowled more than 1,000 games in the Chicago All-Star tournament. He has been in the finals nine times in 13 years.

Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire, defied the odds makers but had two predictions stand up in the Masters golf tournament.

The doughty Sarazen, who has won every major golfing title, said: 1. Ben Hogan would not repeat as Masters kingpin; 2. A score of 280 (8 under par) would not be broken.

Hogan gave Gene a scare on item No. 1, forcing a playoff with Slammin' Sammy Snead who beat Bantam Ben for the third straight time in head-to-head competition. Hogan has never beaten Snead in match play.

Sarazen was miles right in his estimation of the rugged qualities of Bobby Jones' Augusta National course, newly-rigged and toughened by Robert Trent Jones, the master golf architect. Snead and Hogan tied for the first place at 289, one over par, the highest first place total in the tournament's history.

ROBERT TRENT JONES, who will build Wiltwyck's new 18-hole course, is not related to the fabulous Grand Slam Bobby. Sarazen, who captured his first U. S. Open crown 32 years ago, is scheduled for a late May appearance at the Woodstock Country Club. Last September Gene toured Woodstock in 67 in 100-plus temperatures during that heat wave.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

GERRY WELLS, 1953 Wiltwyck club champion, readying for another season with Lehigh University's crack varsity golf squad. Le*high won 12 matches and lost only 3 in 1953. Dr. Alister MacKenzie, world famed Scotch golf architect, worked with Bobby Jones in designing the Augusta National in 1931. No effort was made to copy famous holes from other courses. The designers' idea was to develop 18 as nearly original holes, calling for as many different shots, as possible. Many changes and improvements have been made in layout since it was first built, of course, and by Robert Trent Jones. Today the course measures anywhere from 6250 to 6950 yards, depending upon placement of tee markers and pins. Par is 72. The competitive course record, established in 1940 by Lloyd Mangrum, is 64.*

HERBIE KESSMAN has added an archery range to his thriving range on 9-W and that should be one of the busiest evening spots in the town this summer. Bill Van Aken, the county amateur champion, probably will settle down at Woodstock this year. As the morning follows the night, surely an 18-hole course will follow the IBM plant in Kingston. Then instead of no 18-holers we'll have two and be able to speak on even terms with our Dutchess county neighbors. It seems that almost half of Twaalfskill's membership is luxuriating at Pinehurst, N. C., these days. Alvin Boice broke "80" twice on the No. 4 course. Gus Modjeska shot a pair of 42s, a 38 and 37 for 36 holes and Dr. Douw Meyers is hitting the ball for record distance.

• New Twist in Handicaps:

TWAALFSKILL'S TOURNAMENT committee, headed by barrister Dick Overbagh, is giving serious thought to the USGA's recommendation for "current" and "permanent" handicaps for individual members. The current handicap is flexible and is invaluable in properly pegging the abilities of young or new golfers on the way up the golf ladder. The permanent handicap is designed to show the true ability of the golfer over the long haul, based on the "toughness" of his home course. Involved, of course, are yardage, terrain and other factors in a scientific formula prescribed by the USGA. Instead of the popularly used Calkins system of the average of the five best rounds in a month, the permanent is based on the Chicago system of 30 rounds. The permanent handicap is valuable for the club player who competes on championship courses in outside tournaments and is invariably higher than the home club handicap. The current method of rating players, done on weekly or semi-monthly basis, precludes the possibility of young and improving players stealing handicap tournaments with an unrealistic allotment of strokes.

It was John Sheridan who said, "When you putt well, you are a good putter. But when the other fellow is putting well, he has a good putter."

Strikes Out Sixteen Tri-Valley Batters

Carl Bremer pitched a seven-inning no-hitter and fanned 16 as Onteora Central whipped Tri-Valley, 4-1, yesterday for its second straight victory over the Grahamsville school.

Bremer lost a no-hit, no-run game in the bottom of the seventh when Tri-Valley scored on a walk, stolen base and error by right fielder, Bob Krein.

In the first meeting between the teams Friday at Onteora, Ollie Crawford spun a two-hitter and whiffed 11 for a 9-0 Indian victory.

Onteora scored three runs off Grey in the first frame on a walk, dropped third strike and singles by Ernie Beesmer and Bob Krein.

Grey permitted only four safeties and fanned 14 but the first inning proved disastrous. Bremer set the side down on strikes in the first, second and fifth innings.

The Indians were scheduled to play at Highland High today.

U. S. Open Champs

In the last eight years five golfers have won the U. S. Open. They are Ben Hogan, four times, Julius Boros, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Lew Worsham and Lloyd Mangrum.

Yonkers Feature To Meadow Gene

Yonkers, April 14 (AP)—Meadow Gene, a 4-year-old Adios colt, closed fast through the stretch under driver Jimmy Jordan's urging to win the $3,000 Dunwoodie Class A place last night at Yonkers Raceway in 2:07.

Finishing second to Meadow Gene, who had a 3-year-old mark of 2:00.3 on a mile track, was Prince Eton, handled by John Bedell. Third was Josedale Dandy, driven by Stanley Dancer.

Meadow Gene owned by the Peter Pan Cleaners racing stable of Washington, Pa., paid $6.70, $3.70 and $2.70. It was the first 1954 start for the colt who finished in the money 16 times in 22 starts last year.

Bearcat Wright On Mat Program

The card for Friday's wrestling show at the municipal auditorium was completed today with the signing of two preliminary bouts.

Joe Christie, Detroit, meets Nick Roberts, Chicago, in the 30-minute time limit curtain raiser. The semi-final pairs Bearcat Wright, Omaha Negro, against Willie Greb, Boston, in a best two-of-three falls, 45-minute time limit contest.

Yukon Eric meets Hans Herman, the new German sensation, in the feature bout.

A NEW BLUE SUNOCO

ONLY ONE GRADE—AMERICA'S GREATEST GASOLINE VALUE

Improved Again—New High In Anti-Knock Power

Today, from the laboratories and refineries of Sun Oil Co., comes a new gasoline—a new Blue Sunoco, now even better than before. Made possible by new and improved refining processes, Blue Sunoco has now been stepped up to a new high in anti-knock power for the new high-compression engines. Still at regular gas price, the New High-Test Blue Sunoco is America's greatest gasoline value!

Proved Again—Wins Against 16 Premium-Priced Gasolines

New Blue Sunoco was tested against 16 premium-priced gasolines at Indianapolis Auto Track under supervision of Wilbur Shaw, President of Track. Results prove that—whether you drive 50,000, 20,000 or 10,000 miles a year—you can get as much as 14.9% of these miles free, when you change from a premium-priced brand to New High-Test Blue Sunoco at regular gas price.

THE TEST: Each day, sixteen cars (including those with highest-compression engines) were fueled with $3 worth of gas, driven around track till tanks ran dry. Mileage was carefully recorded. The fleet of cars was run on Blue Sunoco and 16 "premiums".

RESULTS: New Blue Sunoco—at regular gas price—beat them all! It gave up to 14.9% more miles (average: 10.4%) than the premium-priced brands of gasoline tested.

How Sun's one-grade policy gives you high-test performance at regular gas price

Sun Oil Company produces only one grade of gasoline—High-Test Blue Sunoco. This single grade policy results in savings on storage tanks, trucks and pumps. These savings are invested in research and new, improved refining processes to give you a premium-performing gasoline—New High-Test Blue Sunoco—at regular gas price.

Jake La Motta on TV After Year's Absence

Miami Beach, Fla., April 14 (AP)—More than a year after a brutal beating by Danny Nardico sent him into retirement, former middleweight champion Jake LaMotta will be seen on television tonight in a comeback effort against Billy Kilgore of Miami.

The "Bronx Bull" has been made a 3-1 favorite over the unrated Kilgore in a 10-round main event which will be telecast by the Columbia Broadcasting System starting at 10 p. m. (EST).

Don Schlundt of Indiana set a 27.1-point-a-game record average in the Big Ten during the recent basketball season.

Scranton Pinmen Tenth in ABC

Seattle, April 14 (AP)—Scores of bowlers knocked over thousands of pins in American Bowling Congress competition here yesterday but only one change was recorded in the standings during the entire day's firing.

The change isn't likely to bring any lasting glory as it was good enough only to put the Ferranti Ballantine team of Scranton, Pa., in 10th place of the open team division with 2920.

The Pennsylvanians got their hold on the bottom rung just before kegling ceased near midnight. Their 2920 displaced the Dog House team of Seattle, which had a 2917.

Members of the Ferranti Ballantine team will have another chance to get on the ladder today as they shoot at doubles and singles marks. The team includes three bowlers who have rolled a total of 20 perfect games. They are George Billlick, with nine perfectos; Frank Clause 6, and George Tomek, 5.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

BY JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

"How good a hunter will my dog make?" Ed asked me. He's half pointer, half Dalmatian."

This is a frequently repeated question and, although it's not wise to encourage the production of cross-bred dogs, when folks have them they become all-important, as they should. It follows logically that they would be interested in the ability of the dog to hunt.

In some instances, the combination of backgrounds of the crossbreds in question does not suggest any particular ability or desire to hunt, while at other times one or both parents are hunting types. Yet there is only one way to get the answer to Ed's question:

Take your dog into the field. Give him a chance to work. If he shows interest, encourage it and if his interest is accompanied by natural ability, you may have a bang-up good hunting dog.

Chances Are Good

As far as the chances of this particular cross are concerned, the dog's parents are both hunting types. The pointer, we know, has been a functional field dog right up to the present. The Dalmatian, years ago, was the hunting dog of the country of its origin. The breed was used on upland as well as other game and the instinct to point is not rare even today after many generations of breeding without consideration for this characteristic.

You would have to take a pure-bred gun dog into the field to evaluate its willingness and ability to hunt. The same must hold for all dogs, the breeding being an indication of the relative chance and not the actual fact.

"I've seen dogs with some pretty mixed up ancestry that made good hunters," said Ed. "Mike Small has two sorry looking critters that strayed around to his place at different times. He took them in and they're pretty good coon dogs."

It comes down pretty much to the fact that the chances should be in proportion to the characteristics of the parents, but there's only one way to test the pudding.

Will Discontinue Group

New York, April 14 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. has decided to break up the orchestra it created for Arturo Toscanini, now retired, and replace it with concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Broadcasts by the Boston Symphony will be heard Saturday evenings over NBC radio from October through April, NBC President Sylvester L. Weaver, Jr., announced yesterday. The contract with the Boston Symphony also gives NBC rights to the Boston Pops and Esplanade concerts and the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood, Weaver said.

Two Maroon Stars May Quit to Work

High school tennis coach Theron Culver's 1954 job is complicated by a couple of other jobs, it develops today.

Because of chilly weather and unsuitable playing conditions the Maroon netmen have yet to stage a full scale workout.

But the Maroon mentor, blessed with a veteran squad, is plagued with other problems. Specifically, what happens if two of his top players decide to work afternoons?

Cuver declined to reveal the identity of the varsity aces who have been intrigued by the possibility of earning extra cash in the afternoon. So much so that they are willing to abandon their high school tennis careers.

"If that comes to pass, we might just as well fold our tents and steal away," was Culver's dour observation yesterday.

Open With Newburgh

"We open in the middle of a war in our first match with Newburgh (April 29) and if we don't have those players around, we might just as well forfeit."

Culver's pessimism may be alleviated by a sudden decision on the part of the young men to stick with the colors—Maroon, specifically.

The Big Secret

What's the daily double that haunts Culver? Is it Kantrowitz and Schoonmaker? Or Kantrowitz and Smith? Culver knows, but he's not talking, just hoping the young men change their minds.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Experts Use Plays With Discretion

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced player has heard the expression "third hand high," but only the exceptional player knows when to abandon the rule. The point is illustrated in today's hand.

West opened the eight of clubs, dummy put up the nine, and East was allowed to hold the first trick with the jack. East looked carefully at the dummy and decided that declarer would surely depend for at least some of his tricks on ruffing black cards in the dummy.

The best defense against such a plan is to lead trumps and thus reduce dummy's ruffing power. East therefore returned the deuce of hearts at the second trick.

South played the ten of hearts, and West played his king, muttering to himself "third hand high." This was one time when a bridge player's best friend was not his mutter.

Dummy won with the ace of trumps, and declarer got to his hand with the ace of clubs in order to ruff a club. He re-entered his hand by ruffing a diamond and ruffed his last club with dummy's last trump. South eventually lost two spade tricks, but he could afford to lose these tricks, since his only other loser was the first club.

It should have been just as clear to West as it had been to his partner that declarer intended to ruff black cards in the dummy. Hence declarer would have to ruff with dummy's ace of hearts, and West could eventually win a trick with the king of hearts if he simply played a low trump at the second trick instead of wasting his king.

South would be able to win the second trick with his ten of hearts, but he would still have to ruff clubs in the dummy, using dummy's jack and ace of hearts for this purpose. West would make his king of trumps and two spade tricks, and South would be set.

Ulster County Insurance Agents Association

Thanks Legislators

April 12, 1954

Editor, The Freeman:

The membership of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association would appreciate your cooperation in allowing us space in your paper to publicly thank Senator Arthur A. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, our local representatives in the New York Legislature, for their successful efforts in defeating — in the public interest — the New York State Compulsory Automobile Liability Bill.

Their action has saved automobile drivers throughout the state from vastly increased automobile liability insurance rates. The taxpayers have been saved the burden of maintaining an unnecessary bureaucracy. Our representatives have kept the faith for private enterprise as opposed to socialism.

The position they have taken in this matter has preserved the existing Safety-Responsibility law which has successfully ruled off the roads thousands of dangerous and irresponsible motorists. We fully realize that their stand was taken although powerful political pressure was exerted against them.

We thank Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson on behalf of ourselves, as independent insurance agents, and also on behalf of the many people whom we have the privilege of insuring.

Sincerely yours,

No Taste Here

Martinsburg, W. Va. (AP) — The City of Martinsburg took advantage of human nature when beginning fluoridation of its water supply. To avoid complaints from persons imagining a new taste or odor in the water, officials withheld for one week the announcement that fluoride had been added. There were no complaints.

Private Eyes Controlled

Harrisburg (AP) — It's getting tougher to be a "private eye" in Pennsylvania. It used to be under state law that anybody with an anti-crime bent could pay a $25 fee, get a $2,000 bond and take off after criminals. Under a recent law, however, the would-be detective is required to put up $200 in fees and post a $10,000 bond. In addition he must supply his photographs and fingerprints.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Experts Use Plays With Discretion

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Every experienced player has heard the expression "third hand high," but only the exceptional player knows when to abandon the rule. The point is illustrated in today's hand.

West opened the eight of clubs, dummy put up the nine, and East was allowed to hold the first trick with the jack. East looked carefully at the dummy and decided that declarer would surely depend for at least some of his tricks on ruffing black cards in the dummy.

The best defense against such a plan is to lead trumps and thus reduce dummy's ruffing power. East therefore returned the deuce of hearts at the second trick.

South played the ten of hearts, and West played his king, muttering to himself "third hand high." This was one time when a bridge player's best friend was not his mutter.

Dummy won with the ace of trumps, and declarer got to his hand with the ace of clubs in order to ruff a club. He re-entered his hand by ruffing a diamond and ruffed his last club with dummy's last trump. South eventually lost two spade tricks, but he could afford to lose these tricks, since his only other loser was the first club.

It should have been just as clear to West as it had been to his partner that declarer intended to ruff black cards in the dummy. Hence declarer would have to ruff with dummy's ace of hearts, and West could eventually win a trick with the king of hearts if he simply played a low trump at the second trick instead of wasting his king.

South would be able to win the second trick with his ten of hearts, but he would still have to ruff clubs in the dummy, using dummy's jack and ace of hearts for this purpose. West would make his king of trumps and two spade tricks, and South would be set.

Ulster County Insurance Agents Association

Thanks Legislators

April 12, 1954

Editor, The Freeman:

The membership of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association would appreciate your cooperation in allowing us space in your paper to publicly thank Senator Arthur A. Wicks and Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, our local representatives in the New York Legislature, for their successful efforts in defeating — in the public interest — the New York State Compulsory Automobile Liability Bill.

Their action has saved automobile owners throughout the state from vastly increased automobile liability insurance rates. The taxpayers have been saved the burden of maintaining an unnecessary bureaucracy. Our representatives have kept the faith for private enterprise as opposed to socialism.

The position they have taken in this matter has preserved the existing Safety-Responsibility law which has successfully ruled off the roads thousands of dangerous and irresponsible motorists. We fully realize that their stand was taken although powerful political pressure was exerted against them.

We thank Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Wilson on behalf of ourselves, as independent insurance agents, and also on behalf of the many people whom we have the privilege of insuring.

Sincerely yours,
ULSTER COUNTY INSURANCE AGENTS ASSOCIATION
By:
JAMES A. HANSTEIN, Pres.
EDGAR M. MAURER, Sec.

No Taste Here

Martinsburg, W. Va. (AP) — The City of Martinsburg took advantage of human nature when beginning fluoridation of its water supply. To avoid complaints from persons imagining a new taste or odor in the water, officials withheld for one week the announcement that fluoride had been added. There were no complaints.

Private Eyes Controlled

Harrisburg (AP) — It's getting tougher to be a "private eye" in Pennsylvania. It used to be under state law that anybody with an anti-crime bent could pay a $25 fee, get a $2,000 bond and take off after criminals. Under a recent law, however, the would-be detective is required to put up $200 in fees and post a $10,000 bond. In addition he must supply his photographs and fingerprints.

"YOU DON'T SAY!
WHY, I NEVER DREAMED THAT YOU BUILT SUCH BEAUTIFUL — BIG HOMES!"

We hear that expression almost every day from people who finally learned that we have BIG, BEAUTIFUL HOMES of almost ANY SIZE, TYPE or STYLE—TO YOUR PLANS OR OURS! And the interesting thing about it all is that our houses are STRONGER, they have MUCH MORE LUMBER, and SUPERIOR LUMBER—and much, much MORE FOR YOUR MONEY. Our list of proud owners of "NORTHERN" homes is unbelievably long—and these folks have taken the time to thoroughly investigate first. They learned FIRST HAND, THEMSELVES! They didn't just listen to what someone else said. It will pay you to do likewise.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

"YOU DON'T SAY! WHY, I NEVER DREAMED THAT YOU BUILT SUCH BEAUTIFUL — BIG HOMES!"

We hear that expression almost every day from people who finally learned that we have BIG, BEAUTIFUL HOMES of almost ANY SIZE, TYPE or STYLE—TO YOUR PLANS OR OURS! And the interesting thing about it all is that our houses are STRONGER, they have MUCH MORE LUMBER, and SUPERIOR LUMBER—and much, much MORE FOR YOUR MONEY. Our list of proud owners of "NORTHERN" homes is unbelievably long—and these folks have taken the time to thoroughly investigate first. They learned FIRST HAND, THEMSELVES! They didn't just listen to what someone else said. It will pay you to do likewise.

Would Be Equal

If the earth's axis suddenly became perpendicular to the plane of its orbit, we would have no variations of seasons, and our days and nights would be of equal length throughout the year.

Governor Vetoes Study Extension; Game Bill Signed

Albany, April 14 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have required optometry students to spend four years—instead of three—in professional study to qualify for licenses.

Dewey signed a measure fixing a single boundary between the northern and southern zones used in setting game seasons, effective July 1. There formerly have been four such lines, varying with different classes of game.

In a memorandum, the governor said there had been no evidence that it was necessary to lengthen the course of study for optometrists.

Dewey said he was in favor of another clause that would have authorized the Education Department to license schools of optometry for operation independent of universities. Under present law, only a school operated as a department of a university may be recognized.

Would End Confusion

The new game boundary is intended to end confusion among hunters and trappers about where various species may be taken. But it does not affect the north-south line used in fixing deer seasons in eastern and western parts of the state.

Yesterday the governor approved a bill reducing the maximum legal length of tractor-trailers from 50 feet to 45, effective in 1960. It also imposes a limit of 65,000 pounds maximum gross weight on the heaviest types of trucks, where there is now no specific limit.

The measure also scraps the existing "consecutive three-axle" portion of a formula limiting truck weight. The legislation is intended to encourage the use of tandem rear axles, which are regarded as safer than single rear axles.

Can't Join Retirement

Dewey also signed a measure that makes persons whose salaries are less that $1,000 a year ineligible for membership in the State Employers' Retirement System.

He vetoed a bill that would have permitted New York city teachers to count up to four years in maternity leaves in figuring total services of 35 years for retirement purposes.

Yesterday the governor approved a measure reducing the State Industrial Council from nine members to eight, and transferring its medical appeals unit to the jurisdiction of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Detective Is Demoted

New York, April 14 (AP)—A detective who was found by police raiders at the scene of an alleged abortion death was demoted yesterday from first grade detective to uniformed patrolman. The demotion means a loss of $1,050 a year in pay for the policeman, Valentine J. Stewart, who was assigned to the Barclay avenue station in the Bronx.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: What are the main advantages of term insurance?
ANSWER: First, it gives the insured an opportunity to provide maximum protection at a low cost and second, provided the term insurance is "convertible," it makes it possible for the insured to purchase insurance while he is insurable. Later, if serious illness has made him uninsurable, he may still convert his term insurance to a permanent plan which he can carry the rest of his life.
* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Would Be Equal

If the earth's axis suddenly became perpendicular to the plane of its orbit, we would have no variations of seasons, and our days and nights would be of equal length throughout the year.

Governor Vetoes Study Extension; Game Bill Signed

Albany, April 14 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today vetoed a bill that would have required optometry students to spend four years—instead of three—in professional study to qualify for licenses.

Dewey signed a measure fixing a single boundary between the northern and southern zones used in setting game seasons, effective July 1. There formerly have been four such lines, varying with different classes of game.

In a memorandum, the governor said there had been no evidence that it was necessary to lengthen the course of study for optometrists.

Dewey said he was in favor of another clause that would have authorized the Education Department to license schools of optometry for operation independent of universities. Under present law, only a school operated as a department of a university may be recognized.

Would End Confusion

The new game boundary is intended to end confusion among hunters and trappers about where various species may be taken. But it does not affect the north-south line used in fixing deer seasons in eastern and western parts of the state.

Yesterday the governor approved a bill reducing the maximum legal length of tractor-trailers from 50 feet to 45, effective in 1960. It also imposes a limit of 65,000 pounds maximum gross weight on the heaviest types of trucks, where there is now no specific limit.

The measure also scraps the existing "consecutive three-axle" portion of a formula limiting truck weight. The legislation is intended to encourage the use of tandem rear axles, which are regarded as safer than single rear axles.

Can't Join Retirement

Dewey also signed a measure that makes persons whose salaries are less that $1,000 a year ineligible for membership in the State Employers' Retirement System.

He vetoed a bill that would have permitted New York city teachers to count up to four years in maternity leaves in figuring total services of 35 years for retirement purposes.

Yesterday the governor approved a measure reducing the State Industrial Council from nine members to eight, and transferring its medical appeals unit to the jurisdiction of the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Detective Is Demoted

New York, April 14 (AP)—A detective who was found by police raiders at the scene of an alleged abortion death was demoted yesterday from first grade detective to uniformed patrolman. The demotion means a loss of $1,050 a year in pay for the policeman, Valentine J. Stewart, who was assigned to the Barclay avenue station in the Bronx.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: What are the main advantages of term insurance?

ANSWER: First, it gives the insured an opportunity to provide maximum protection at a low cost and second, provided the term insurance is "convertible," it makes it possible for the insured to purchase insurance while he is insurable. Later, if serious illness has made him uninsurable, he may still convert his term insurance to a permanent plan which he can carry the rest of his life.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
